

Kennedy Outlines Program for Civil Rights Legislation

'Frustration and Discord' Peril Safety, President Says

BY HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has warned the nation that discrimination against Negroes has lighted "fires of frustration and discord" that threaten lives and the public safety.

The President outlined a broad legislative program he will propose to Congress next week. He said it will be based on the proposition "that race has no place in American life or law."

A great change is at hand, he said, and "our task, our obligation, is to make that revolution, that change, peaceful and constructive for all."

Radio, TV Address
Kennedy appeared Tuesday evening on radio and television in a fireside civil rights lecture to Americans of both North and South only hours after Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace bowed to federal pressure and stepped aside to let two Negro students register at the previously all-white University of Alabama.

"I hope that every American, regardless of where he lives, will stop and examine his conscience about this and other related incidents," said Kennedy.

"When Americans are sent to Viet Nam or West Berlin, we do not ask for whites only," he said.

"It ought to be possible, therefore, for American students of any color to attend any public institution they select without having to be backed up by troops."

Moral Crisis for U.S.
Kennedy, declaring that America faces "a moral crisis as a country and as a people," said he will ask Congress to make a civil rights commitment "it has not fully made in this century."

The President said he will propose legislation that would:

1. Prohibit stores, hotels, restaurants and theaters from discriminating against Negroes.
2. Allow the federal government to take a more active part in court suits aimed at desegregating public schools.
3. Afford greater protection for Negroes' right to vote.

Acknowledging the new laws are not enough, Kennedy said, however, that in too many parts of the country wrongs are inflicted on Negroes because they have no remedies at law—and "unless

2 Whites Shot, 4 Persons Hurt In Race Rioting

Tense Situation Brings Violence In Maryland Town

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Two white men were shot and at least four other persons were injured when a race riot erupted in this small Eastern Shore community late Tuesday night.

A tense racial situation flared into violence when a crowd of about 100 whites followed an equal number of Negro demonstrators back into the Negro section.

The Negroes had just finished their second march on the town's courthouse and jail protesting the sentencing of a Negro boy and girl. The 15-year-olds, who had been arrested several times for participating in racial demonstrations, were adjudged to be delinquent Monday and sent to state training schools for an indeterminate period.

Police Efforts Futile
A handful of city police tried to keep the two groups separated, but the whites swarmed across the street toward the marchers just as they reached the Negro section.

The fight had just started when shots were fired. One shotgun blast struck the two white men. Another slammed through the window of a second-floor apartment occupied by a white woman.

Three fires, one a general alarm blaze, broke out after fire bombs were tossed into business establishments operated by whites in the Negro section. Police found homemade fire bombs fashioned from beer bottles filled with gasoline in two of these places.

FBI Asked To Help Find Assassins

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Medgar W. Evers, one of the South's prominent Negro leaders, was mortally wounded in the driveway of his home early today.

Evers, 37, Mississippi field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, died about 50 minutes later in University Medical Center.

Evers had been directing a massive civil disobedience campaign against racial discrimination in the Mississippi capital.

Police launched a widespread search for his assassin.

"This is most unfortunate," said Jackson Chief of Detectives W. B. Pierce, who asked the FBI to assist in the investigation.

Can't 'Kill Human Rights'
"In their ignorance they believe that by killing a brave, dedicated and resourceful leader of the civil rights struggle they can kill the movement for human rights. They cannot."

Wilkins said the NAACP was posting a $10,000 reward for Evers' assassin.

Evers was shot as he stepped out of his car about 12:30 a.m. He had been in his office conferring with NAACP attorneys after an integration rally.

The bullet struck Evers in the right side of his back, passed through his body and smashed into his house.

The slug went through a plate glass window at an angle, pierced a wall and hit a refrigerator.

Deer Rifle Weapon
The bullet bounced off the refrigerator onto a counter near the sink. Police found it beneath a watermelon.

Police said the weapon was ap-

New Jersey Union Leader Convicted In Extortion Case

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Anthony (Tony Pro) Provenzano, powerful leader of the New Jersey Teamsters Union Joint Council, has been found guilty of extorting $17,100 from a New York trucking firm.

The verdict against the chunky, 46-year-old Provenzano was delivered Tuesday night by a U.S. District Court jury of six men and six women. They received the case Monday.

Provenzano faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Judge Robert Shaw said a sentencing date would be set after Provenzano, who is at liberty in $1,000 bail reports to his probation officer Thursday.

Provenzano, a close friend of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, also is an international vice president of the union.

Provenzano was accused of extorting $17,100 from Dorn Trans-shipment, Inc., of Rensselaer, N.Y., from 1952-59 to insure labor peace at its Secaucus, N.J., terminal, where drivers of Local 560 were employed.

2 Negro Students Enroll at Alabama U.; Troops Stand by

Wallace Gives Way After Kennedy Nationalizes Guard

BY BELMAN MORIN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Two Negroes—a girl and boy—went to their first classes at the University of Alabama today and white students extended friendly hands in an atmosphere of tranquility.

Three girls walked with Vivian Malone as she went from her dormitory to a classroom building. They chatted as they strolled.

And a white youth called James A. Hood "Jimmy" in advising him that he had taken the wrong turn along the tree-lined campus at one point.

Across from Comer Hall, where Miss Malone went to study business administration, a National Guardsman in green fatigue uniform stood. Nearby were three federal marshals.

Governor Yields

The 43-year-old governor, grim and determined, stood off federal officials in the first meeting at the university. He read a proclamation to "denounce and forbid this illegal and unwarranted action by the central government."

The federal officials and the Negro students, Vivian Malone and James A. Hood, withdrew temporarily.

A short time later, Wallace was confronted by Brig. Gen. Henry V. Graham, 47, assistant commander of the 31st Infantry Division of the National Guard.

The tall, militarily erect Graham, gray-haired and unbowed, saluted. The governor, his chin thrust forward but his face now bleak, waited.

Raps Federalization
Graham said he had been commanded to ask Wallace to step aside.

Wallace, who had earlier been told by the President to give up his defiance, replied: "I wish to make a statement."

"But for the unwarranted federalization of the National Guard, I would be your commander in chief. In fact, I am your commander in chief."

For the youthful governor it obviously was bitter defeat.

Wallace said again that Alabama's citizenry should refrain from violence. He denounced the federal government's "trend to military dictatorship" and then almost angrily unhooked a microphone from around his neck, let-

Neenah Man Killed by Train

NEENAH — Harvey Christensen, 61, 235 Gruenwald Ave., Neenah, was fatally injured when he was struck by a southbound Soo Line freight train at 6:35 a.m. today on the tracks near Chapman Avenue.

According to the engineer, Leo Walt, Fond du Lac, Christensen walked out of bushes west of the main line track, crossed the tracks in front of the engine, started back over the tracks in front of the engine and was facing it when struck.

His body was discovered by Winnebago County sheriff's officers about 700 feet northwest of the South Lake Street crossing.

Dead at Scene
A nephew of Christensen told authorities his uncle was an oiler at the Lakeview plant of Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Christensen was pronounced dead at the scene by Winnebago County Coroner Arthur Miller. Miller said Christensen apparently became confused after he crossed the tracks the first time and probably thought the train was on a different track.

The train reportedly was traveling about 25 to 30 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

The body was taken to the Westgor Funeral Home, and arrangements are pending. The widow was at a cottage at Lake Poygan.

2 Athletes Die In Auto Smashup

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two star athletes at Milwaukee's Rufus King High School were injured fatally late Tuesday night when an auto crashed into a tree in a suburban park.

Their deaths raised the Wisconsin traffic toll for the year to 317, compared with 351 at this time a year ago.

Ronald Sterling, 17, Milwaukee, was dead on arrival at Columbia hospital Tuesday night after the car in which he was riding went out of control and hit a tree in Estabrook Park in Shorewood.

Donald Raabe, 17, died at the hospital of internal injuries today. A third occupant of the car, Alan Crane, 19, was in fair condition today. All three were members of the Milwaukee Rufus King High School football and baseball teams.

GOP Names T. A. Peterson State Chief

MADISON — Talbot Peterson, 41-year-old Appleton business executive, today was elected chairman of the Republican party organization of Wisconsin by the party's state executive committee.

Peterson was chosen to succeed Claude J. Jasper of Madison, who retired after seven years in the party job.

Hong Kong to Import Water From Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—The Hong Kong government decided today to import water from Communist China to relieve the British colony's severe drought.

Hundreds cheered the 61-year-old cardinal as his train pulled in. But he reminded them of the death of Pope John XXIII.

"Do not applaud. Remember that this is a time of grief for us," he said.

Polish Cardinal in Rome for Conclave

ROME (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland, arrived today for the conclave that will elect a new Pope.

None of the ministers would speak publicly about the meeting and, in fact, none of them looked very happy about it.

But the usually well-informed British Press Association said it was evident that the meeting "was a harmonious one and that there may well be a unanimity of view."

Campenni Resigns as Aide to Sen. Proxmire

MADISON (AP)—Frank Campenni, a University of Wisconsin graduate student whose employment by U.S. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., stirred a political controversy, resigned as an aide to the senator today.

In a letter to Proxmire, Campenni said his action was taken to eliminate a "situation" that "may be used in attempt to damage you politically."

"When I joined your staff while on leave from the university, I had expected to work with you in

Macmillan Holds Emergency Talks

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan held an emergency Cabinet meeting today and reportedly persuaded his shaken ministers to back his handling of the Profumo vice scandal.

None of the ministers would speak publicly about the meeting and, in fact, none of them looked very happy about it.

But the usually well-informed British Press Association said it was evident that the meeting "was a harmonious one and that there may well be a unanimity of view."

Men in Four-County Area Tip Scales by 329.9 Tons Too Much

Men in Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet Counties carry a lot of weight—329.9 tons compared to 126 in 1929. The too much, in fact. According to a survey conducted by the Society of Actuaries and by the Department of Agriculture, area male residents are, on the average, five pounds heavier than their counterparts in 1929.

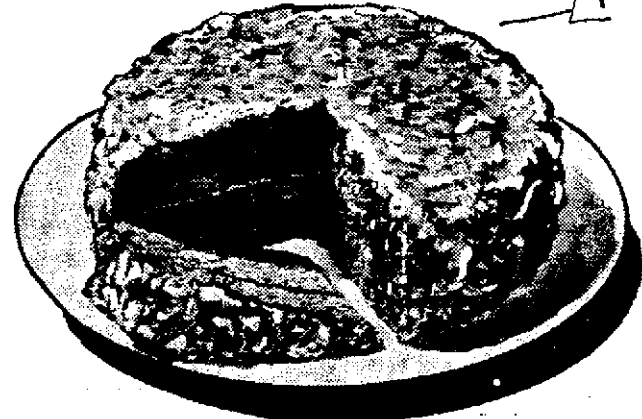

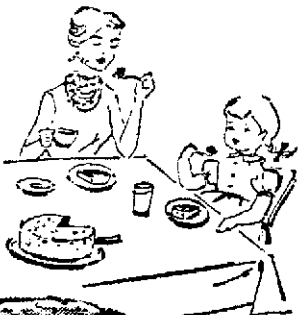

On the other hand, women in the four counties weigh less today than women did in 1929, with about a four-pound decrease.

Age 40 Problem
In Outagamie County, the male population as a whole is overweight by 350,950 pounds, although the degree of overweight varies with age and with height. For the 5-foot, 8-inch group, four extra pounds have been put on by those who are 25 years old, six pounds by the 35-year-olds, and five pounds by those who are 45, 10 per cent higher than it should and three pounds by men age 55, bc.

Sites to be Picked For 2 Youth Camps

MADISON (AP) — The State Department of Public Welfare was authorized by a bill signed by Gov. John W. Reynolds Tuesday to pick sites for two new youth camps to be built and operated with funds from the state's $50 million outdoor resource development program.

The state now operates one such camp on Statehouse Lake near Rhinelander. Funds had been earmarked for a second camp in St. Croix County but the site later proved to be unavailable.

The Statehouse Lake camp cost $102,900. About $188,000 is available to build the two additional camps.

In Good Times and Bad, She Always Has Sage Comment

BY HAL BOYLE
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) —
"When you're young nothing troubles you," said the old lady, cheerfully. "And when you're old nothing helps."
The old lady is my mother, and she is given to extemporaneous remarks like that.
Now in her 76th year, she is an incurable philosopher and always has been. No matter what has happened to her—or to anyone around her—Mama has always been able to come up with a sage comment that points up a lesson to be learned from the experience.
She can see a silver lining in a cloudburst.

She has slowed up a little since I saw her a year ago, and has need herself of her pithy optimism. An attack of rheumatism has made her dependent on a cane for support while in slow and painful transit from the kitchen to the living room sofa, which generally serves as the throne from which she delivers her philosophic judgments of mankind.

On Cane
"I always knew I'd end up on a cane some day," she remarked.
"My best friends now are the heating pad and the aspirin bottle.
They're the only things that give any real relief. Oh, sometimes I think they ought to take all us old people out and shoot us—for all the good we are to anyone, including ourselves."

Then she added with a smile of victory: "But, do you know, I haven't had to pay out $15 to doctors in the last two years. That's pretty good, isn't it?"

Mama, who can find some good in practically any situation, can even see some advantage in her rheumatism. It has made her something of a weather oracle.

Any in the neighborhood who go ahead with a picnic, on a day when her leg cripples up, do so at their peril. It is pretty sure to rain before nightfall.

Mama, who is short and so stout
I can barely get my arms around her to give her a hug, gets a placid satisfaction out of reading the obituaries of skinny people.
"I tried to get the doctor to put me on a diet," she remarked happily. "But he just told me,
'No, you're too old now to change your ways, and besides you've learned how to live with your weight. Just go on being yourself.'"

Widowed 25 Years
Widowed more than 25 years, Mama has a lot of living to look back upon, the struggling years when she cooked and washed and dusted and scrubbed for Dad and five children. She doesn't dwell much in the past, however, and is quietly proud that all her children are still alive and eating regularly —and the youngest is now 45.

Mama, who educated herself through daily newspapers, still reads them thoroughly and keeps up with national and world affairs.

"There is too much unnecessary tension in life today," she said the other night as we sat cooling off on a bench in the back yard.
"People worry themselves sick trying to get things they don't really need."

"When your Dad and I were young we had nothing—so there was nothing for us to worry about."
"But bad" as it is, this old world is still pretty good, and I guess that's the way it always will be—if you just have sense enough to realize it."

Plans Made for City Playground Summer Program

Workshop sessions will be held for supervisors of Appleton's summer playground program in the common council chambers at city hall today, Thursday and Friday.

The three-day program will be launched Wednesday at 10 a.m. with speeches by E. W. Grover, recreation department director,
Lawrence Witzke, playgrounds supervisor; Lloyd Koehnke, sports supervisor; Miss Roberta Krueger, arts and crafts supervisor;
John Gurholt, tennis instructor;
and Miss Rhonda Cundy, music and drama instructor.

Several Appleton residents will give special reports at the workshop sessions, which playground leaders attend without pay, prior to the opening of the various play centers next week.

2 Negroes Enrolled In Alabama University

it drop to the floor and left the doorway.

Applause, cheers and yells followed him as he rode away.

Then Hood, who plans to major in psychology and pursue a ministerial career after graduation, was escorted to the building.

The Negro youth walked inside quickly to register. He wore a dark suit and a dark straw hat.

Minutes later Miss Malone, wearing a pink summer dress, went inside. The slender young woman from Mobile plans to study business management.

Returning from registration, she and Hood talked briefly to newsmen.

"This is our first and final news conference," said Hood. "We are very happy our registration has taken place without incident. We hope to get down to our purpose—study."

Miss Malone agreed.

The bought textbooks under escort of federal marshals and then went to their dormitory rooms.

Wallace, who returned by airplane Tuesday night to Montgomery, the state capital, was met by 200 well-wishers and his mother, Mozelle Wallace.

Smiling and expressing surprise at the reception, Wallace said: "I think we are helping to wake this country up."

He was asked if he plans to repeat his stand at the university center in Huntsville where another Negro, Dave McGlathery, plans to enroll Thursday.

"I don't want to make any further statement on that," Wallace said.

Edwin Guthman, the chief information officer of the Justice Department, said the Guardsmen called into Tuscaloosa under federal orders were there to assist local officials.

Under Civilian Control

"Anytime we have the assurance that local law enforcement officials are able to maintain law and order and prevent interference with the orders of the court, several times.

there will be no need for the troops," he said.

Guthman said the campus still is under civilian control.

Hundreds of state police sealed the campus last Friday. Many of the men, including the state public safety director Col. Al Lingo, have worked 20-hour shifts.

Under these conditions, nearly 4,000 students registered Monday for the summer session. None of the white students created disorder during the confrontation between Wallace and federal officials.

The governor, a former golden gloves boxer, arrived here Monday afternoon.

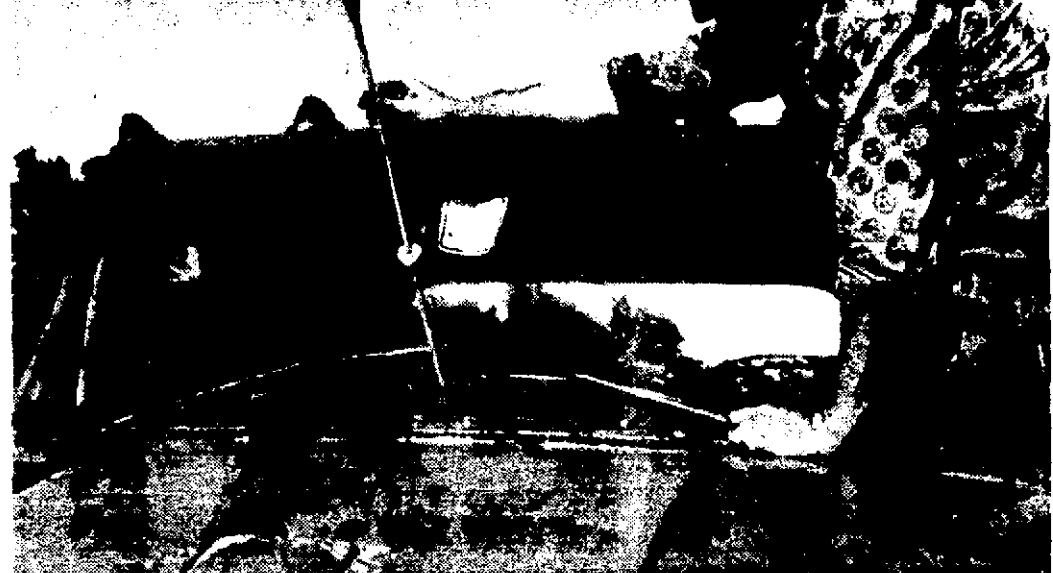

He met Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy U.S. attorney general, in the first encounter. Holding up his left hand, the governor read a proclamation refusing to permit the Negroes to enroll despite court orders and an injunction forbidding him from physical interference.

During a staring match, Katzenbach told Wallace: "These students will remain on this campus. They will register."

Katzenbach, 41, tall and balding, is 6-2 and weighs 200. He towered over Wallace, who stands 5-7.

He asked Wallace to step aside.

When Wallace refused, Katzenbach left with the Negro students who had remained in a car in Dallas Matthies of Norfolk, Neb., told police he shot an arrow into the air and it came down, he knew not where. Frank Lanman Jr., partner in a Norfolk oil company, shows where he found the arrow, smack in the center of the windshield of a truck which was being serviced. No one was injured. (AP Wirephoto)

Friends at Rites For Zasu Pitts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hollywood friends said goodbye to veteran comedienne Zasu Pitts at funeral services Tuesday in the mausoleum chapel at Holy Cross Cemetery.

More than 100 attended. Miss Pitts, 63, died Friday of cancer.

The mourners included actresses Martha Raye, Virginia Grey and Patsy Kelly, actor Ronald Reagan and producer Hal Roach Sr.

Russians Say Probe of Mars Shows Flat Areas

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists reported Tuesday that a 62-million mile radar probe of Mars showed sizable flat areas on the planet's surface.

The news agency Tass said the probe was made last February. It said the radio waves took over 11 minutes to travel to Mars and back.

Tass said the results of the experiment were compared with earlier radar scans of the planets Venus and Mercury.

Kennedy Maps Broad Plans On Civil Rights

the Congress acts, their only remedy is the street."

In Congress, leaders of both parties promised to put their shoulders to the wheel.

"I recognize that Congress has a responsibility in this field," said Senate Democratic Leader Everett M. Dirksen, "and there should be some action in this session on effective civil rights legislation. To this end I will devote my best efforts."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted, "We'll have civil rights legislation at this session and it looks like we will be in session for the remainder of the year." House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said the President's speech "would have great weight with the country as well as Congress."

Filibuster Probable

But from a southern Democrat came warnings of filibuster and violence.

"If the President tries to enforce his legislative proposals I think it will mean violence," said Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La.

Noting a statement by an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference that Negroes would stage civil disobedience demonstrations in Washington if southern senators filibuster against civil rights legislation, Ellender said:

"The threat I just heard tonight that the Negroes will lie in the streets if there is a filibuster—which there will be—will mean a lot of bloodshed. I'm sorry this is what is in store—more violence, bloodshed without question."

In Birmingham, Ala., which was torn by racial strife last month, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. disclosed a telegram he sent to Kennedy which praised the President's speech as "one of the most eloquent, profound and unequivocal pleas for justice and freedom of all men ever made by any president."

Offers Statistics

Sitting behind his desk and using few gestures as he spoke, Kennedy reeled off statistics to show the plight of Negroes.

"This is not a sectional issue," said the President. "Difficulties over segregation and discrimination exist in every city, in every state of the Union, producing in many cities a rising tide of discontent that threatens the public safety."

Not long after he spoke racial violence flared in Cambridge, Md., 85 miles east of the capital. Two white men were wounded by shotgun blasts as whites and Negroes skirmished. Bricks flew and fires broke out in three white business places.

Said Kennedy: "The fires of frustration and discord are burning in every city, North and South, where legal remedies are not at hand. Redress is sought in the streets, in demonstrations, parades and protests which create tensions and threaten violence and threaten lives."

Kennedy said the crisis cannot be met by repressive police action, left to more demonstrations or quieted by token moves.

"It is time to act in the Congress, in your state and local legislative body and, above all, in all our daily lives," he said.

commander, rushed to this normally quiet town on the Choptank River at 1 a.m.

Davidson said he had canceled all state police leaves and had called in enough reserves to "sufficiently support the local authorities."

Jerome Shenton, 36, owner of an auto paint and fender shop, and George Bernard Todd, 42, a fire insurance adjuster, were struck by shotgun pellets as they sat in a car in front of Shenton's shop. Minutes before Shenton's shop was the target of a crude fire bomb. The men were treated at a hospital and released.

A general alarm fire in a grocery store operated by a white man finally was brought under control, although a mob of some 200 Negroes pelted firemen and state police with rocks, bricks and bottles before they were dispersed. A deputy sheriff fired his revolver into the air at the height of the disturbance, and helmeted state police wielding riot sticks and assisted by K-9 dogs broke up the crowd.

In addition to demanding that all classes be declared integrated next September, the Negroes have been demonstrating for weeks for desegregation of the town's, approximately 20 restaurants and for increased employment opportunity.

Venezuela Election May be Violent

No Matter Who Wins Mere Voting Will be Victory for Democracy

BY PAUL FINCH

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Still battling diehard Castro-Communists, Venezuela is hurtling toward an historic and probably violent election for the successor to President Romulo Betancourt.

Four candidates already are campaigning at full tilt and a fifth will appear next month—the long-awaited choice of Betancourt's own big worker-peasant party, Democratic Action.

No matter who wins the mere election itself would be a victory for democracy in this oil-rich but underdeveloped country.

Betancourt has been under attack by Communists—as well as right-wing plotters—since shortly after he took office in 1959 and refused to let Communists take part in his coalition government.

It was hardly a surprise to any Venezuelan a week ago when a special commission of the Organization of American States said Fidel Castro's Cuba has picked Venezuela as its principal target.

Betancourt appears to have gathered local support gradually as he has taken his own steps against Communists in answer to terrorism, oil installation sabotage, and two full-scale revolts last year.

He has suspended the Communists as a party and banned them from the presidential and congressional elections, tentatively set for November. He has asked the Supreme Court to outlaw the party entirely.

Apparently weary of temporarily suspending constitutional guarantees to gain extra police powers, Betancourt last week asked Congress to pass an emergency law providing the first stiff sentences for terrorists who shoot policemen and burn down factories.

Diplomats say Communists have lost prestige in Venezuela since 1958, when they took credit for helping to oust dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez.

"Terrorism has backfired on them," says one government official. "Fidel Castro has also lost his appeal because of his economic failure in Cuba."

Communists themselves may feel this. The terrorist group FAJN—Armed Front of National Liberation—no longer uses the words Castro or communism in its propaganda.

Young Democrats at Madison Urge Income, Sales Tax Compromise

MADISON (AP) — Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds and the Republican majorities in the Legislature have been urged by the Madison Young Democratic Club to adopt a compromise tax program including a three per cent sales tax and an income tax increase.

David Allen, who heads the organization of high school students, said the proposal approved by the group calls for a sales tax with food, clothing, medicines and drugs exempt, and an income tax boost sufficient to raise $200 million in additional revenue in the next two years.

The proposal said the compromise would avoid "an impasse resulting in financial chaos and insolvency."

All Right...Let's TEST CATHOLIC LOYALTY!

The majority of non-Catholics do not question the patriotism of their Catholic fellow-citizens.

They have seen too many Catholic sons die beside their own on countless battlefields. They have stood too often with Catholics in defense of common ideals and a common heritage.

Yet the ugly voice of bigotry is heard again—warning that Catholics "owe allegiance to a foreign potentate"... that "Popery" is a "menace to democracy"... even that Catholicism is as "totalitarian as Communism."

Informed non-Catholics will scorn these unworthy accusations. But in the interest of truth and good will among people of all faiths, this miserable skeleton of intolerance should be exposed for the benefit of the many who otherwise may become unwitting victims of false and misleading books, tracts and other anti-Catholic propaganda.

One critic in the United States suggests that the Catholic Church is "undemocratic" because it opposes such things as birth control, divorce and questionable reading matter. By this unreasonable standard, a religious denomination which opposes alcoholic drink could also be called "undemocratic" because it holds principles contrary to the law of the land. Catholics, certainly, make no such criticism.

Catholics are called "undemocratic" because they have their own schools. By the same reasoning, all other denominations with church-sponsored schools and colleges could be likewise condemned, despite the fact that religious schools preceded tax-supported schools in the United States and Canada, and that most of our private colleges and universities were founded by religious bodies.

The Catholic Church is called an "alien" religion because the Vatican is located in Italy.

All of the major religious faiths of the United States and Canada had their origin in foreign lands. And the fact is that the religions professed by these bodies are at this very time the state religions in certain other lands. But does anyone call them "undemocratic"?

For nearly 2,000 years, the Catholic Church has existed under any and all forms of government. Its people comply with the political system of the land they live in... refusing to comply only if a political state should command them to violate God's law. An example is the Catholic resistance to Communism wherever it appears—because Catholicism and Communism are incompatible.

Signs Point Toward Budget Settlement

Reynolds, GOP Now Deadlocked

MADISON (AP)—Any modern highway has signs to tell the traveler where he is and how far it is to where he is going.

Careful observers of the legislative scene are aware of similar signs on the road to a compromise between Gov. John W. Reynolds and the Legislature on the question of budget and taxes, but they can't decide whether the signs point forward or backward.

This week the Legislative Joint Finance Committee and Reynolds are supposed to be trying to agree on where they, and the state, are going.

Since the dispute concerns everyone, the nature of some of the road signs should be revealed. The first sign of consequence is the figure $512.6 million, which represents the money that will have been spent in the two years ending Jun 30.

By June 30, it was originally estimated, the state will have received $489.9 million in tax revenue. Obviously, the $22.7 million difference is a deficit. To make matters worse, it is now thought that revenue will be even less and the deficit nearer $29 million.

The next sign to consider is Reynolds' proposal that the state spend $669.3 million in 1963-65. Simple subtraction shows this is $156.7 million more than was spent in the current biennium.

Turning to the financing of Reynolds' proposed budget, it is estimated that the present tax structure will produce $510.2 million, which is $159.1 million short of paying for the budget and if the $29 million deficit is added, as it needs to be, is $188.1 million less than must be raised.

It is the governor's position that, having determined the state needs to spend $669.3 million, it can afford to raise the taxes to pay for it.

Opposite Direction
Republican legislators approach the spend-tax problem from the opposite direction. They say the state can afford only an additional tax increase of about $142 million and after taking care of the current deficit there will be only some $114 million to apply to the 1963-65 budget.

Add the revenue from current taxes and this new money gives total revenue of $624 million for 1963-65, by Republican figuring. Thus, if Republicans remain adamant, this means that they and the governor are about $45 million apart.

An added factor here is Gov. Reynolds' statement that only $27 million of his budget represents new programs. All the rest of the increase is for continuing existing programs.

If Reynolds is correct, Republicans will have to find ways of eliminating $18 million from existing programs in addition to eliminating the new programs to bring the budget within the limits they have set.

UW Regent Feels Budget Cuts to Be Below Fears
MADISON (AP)—University of Wisconsin Regent Carl E. Steiger of Oshkosh said Tuesday he did not feel university budget cuts that may be required as the result of the tax-budget standoff would be as great as estimated originally.

Steiger included the observation in a statement lauding University President Fred B. Harrington for going ahead with plans to make the cuts should they be required.

Harrington's planning, Steiger said, "shows a commendable spirit of cooperation with the Legislature in making a genuine effort to provide the necessary funds for all state agencies."

Vietnamese Gather For Monk's Rites

Buddhist Burned Himself to Death In Protest Over Religious Policy

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Milling crowds gathered in front of Buddhist pagodas today for memorial services for a monk who burned himself to death in protest against President Ngo Dinh Diem's religious policies.

Combat police in battle dress blockaded at least five pagodas, including the one where the monk's body lay. Monks said police granted permission for about 100 Buddhists at a time to enter the building to pay homage.

One pagoda defied a government ban and flew a giant five-colored Buddhist flag until police ordered it down.

There was no violence, however. Some of the Buddhist anger also is directed at the United States because American weapons, furnished for the war against Communist guerrillas, have been turned on Buddhists accusing the government of religious persecution.

Diem Is Catholic
Diem, a Roman Catholic, told the aroused South Vietnamese people Tuesday night he was "very sorry" about the torch suicide of a 73-year-old Buddhist monk in downtown Saigon.

Faced with one of the gravest crises in his eight-year rule, the 62-year-old president promised resumption today or negotiations on Buddhist demands for more religious freedom and social reforms.

He blamed extremists for arousing public opinion against his government with false propaganda.

"I solemnly declare that, behind Buddhism in this country, there is the constitution—which means I myself," he said.

About 80 per cent of South Viet Nam's 15 million people are Buddhists, but the government is dominated by Diem's Catholic family. Buddhist leaders, committed by their religion to non-violent action, threatened to call on lay followers to join in demonstrations "with all the violent consequences that probably would follow."

Monk's Threat
One monk threatened to disembowel himself publicly if Buddhist demands were not met.

Prayer services were scheduled at Buddhist pagodas throughout the country Sunday. It was feared these would produce more incidents.

The U.S. Embassy, trying to steer a neutral course, instructed American families to stay indoors. The Buddhists appealed for help from the International Red Cross, the United Nations and President Kennedy.

The Buddhists demand equal status with the Catholic Church, permission to display their religious flags and indemnities for the dead and wounded in a clash May 8 that sparked the religious-political crisis.

Demonstrations and clashes with police and troops have occurred frequently in the weeks since.

Officer Speaks To Delegates at GFWC Meeting

Gruenther Says Red Ideology Declining, Democracy on Rise

BY HARRY CHANDLER
MILWAUKEE (AP)—The United States has a lot of things going for it in the ideological battle with Communism but "operates in a very tough league," said Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

The one-time Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, now president of the American Red Cross, addressed delegates to the General Federation of Women's Clubs Tuesday night. Today's convention program will be highlighted by a speech by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Democracy is on the rise and Communism on the decline, Gruenther told an audience that included as honored guests representatives of affiliated women's clubs in 17 foreign countries.

A hot war can probably be avoided, he said, but the ideological battle is likely to go on "for a long, long time."

Hard Fight
"The struggle is going to be difficult," said Gruenther "but the Communists are having troubles."

The free world must offer something more positive than anti-bath toward Communism, he said.

"Our system is based entirely on individual responsibility. If we cannot get the majority of our own people to believe that, then we are in trouble. We have a tremendous job to be certain we are indoctrinating our young people into our own values."

The delegates representing 11 million clubwomen throughout the world heard from another speaker that the Soviet Union has declared "financial war" on the United Nations.

Francis T. P. Plimpton, deputy U.S. ambassador to the UN, said refusal of the Soviets to pay their assessed share of the cost of police action in the Middle East and the "Congo was a case of "blackmail" against the General Assembly.

Aren't Always Happy With Results

Communist Nations Are Conducting Their Own Public Opinion Surveys

BY WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Taking a leaf from the American book, Communist nations have started conducting their own public opinion polls. Sometimes they don't like what they find out, the U.S. Information Agency reports.

Communist pollsters have sampled public opinion in Poland, Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union, the USIA said in a report on its own research activities submitted to a House Appropriations subcommittee and made public today.

Poll reports published in Communist newspapers usually are not complete enough to permit accurate judgments about the findings, the agency said, but they do "tell us something about what people are thinking behind the Iron Curtain, where USIA has an important audience."

The agency cited a report on a 1961 poll of Yugoslav students, conducted by the Zagreb Union of Communists, which indicated that "a large percentage of students had serious doubts about the validity of Marxist ideology."

"The poll reports also said that despite long indoctrination efforts, Yugoslav young people still are oriented largely toward private and personal pursuits in life," the USIA said. "The newspaper report of the poll indicated that authorities were not at all pleased with answers the students gave."

The agency also told of these findings of its own studies:

—Opinions of Castro-style communism among rural workers in Latin America "ranged downward from cool neutrality to strong rejection." Such workers favored land reform instituted by their governments, a seven-nation study showed.

—Among the urban discontented in Latin America, however, Communist ideas find more fertile ground. The main reservoirs of support for land and property expropriation and Castroism were the poor and those middle-income persons who were both dissatisfied with conditions and interested in politics.

—Student surveys in the Near and Far East, Africa and Latin America indicated that "a majority professed to dislike communism as a system, but in each country they always ranked socialism highest."

Figures Being Compiled on State Budget

MADISON (AP) — The state budget being prepared by Republican lawmakers has reached the stage of pulling together figures supplied by subcommittee chairmen, Assemblyman Glen Pommerening, R-Wauwatosa, said Tuesday night.

The GOP majorities in both the Senate and Assembly took up the job of preparing a budget after they were unable to reach an agreement with Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds on a tax plan to finance the budget he offered early in the session. The governor wants income tax increases, but Republicans a general sales tax.

The Legislature has been in recess since last Friday while the Legislative Joint Finance Committee undertakes to write the new budget.

Foster Predicts U. S. Okay of Test Ban Pact

Says Senate Fight Would be Tough, but Passage Is Certain

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Disarmament Director William C. Foster predicts a safe passage in the Senate for any nuclear test ban treaty signed by the Soviet Union and the West.

He does not agree with those who predict that a treaty would provoke the most bruising battle in the Senate since the proposal to join the League of Nations after World War I. Nor does he believe it would suffer the same dismal fate.

"It would be tough," Foster said in an interview, "but we could get a treaty through the Senate."

Foster, 66, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, will not take part in the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban treaty negotiations in Moscow next month. From his office here, he will back up the efforts of the American negotiators.

He would have a major role in selling any treaty to the Senate. Without the approval of a two-thirds majority, the treaty, like the League of Nations proposal almost 50 years ago, would die, unratified.

No Illusions

Despite his optimism, Foster said he had no illusions about the significance of a nuclear test ban treaty.

"The importance of a treaty has been exaggerated," he said. "It has symbolic value. Everyone feels that if we can't negotiate a test ban—when we are so close—then we can't negotiate any other part of the disarmament program."

Foster took issue with Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and others who feel that the U.S. Senate is the "big, black obstacle" to a test ban.

"Congress isn't the big, black obstacle to a treaty," Foster said with a smile. "The Russians are."

Sandburg sat in his giant study and said about his wife, "A most amazing woman. We're equal, but she is superior in learning. "We're both Phi Beta Kappa, but she earned hers. I went up to Harvard to get mine after writing some books. Then the next week they gave me another one at the University of Virginia."

Mr. Sandburg served a round of cool goat's milk and casually mentioned it was her husband who suggested they buy goats.

"I made the point that you could carry a goat around in a car," Sandburg said. "Besides, did you ever see a cow that was good at leaping from rock to rock?"

The conversation turned to Mrs. Sandburg's herd of prize-winning nubians and toggenburgs; and to goat's milk, its flavor, its byproducts, its soothing effect on the gall bladder.

Sandburg let his eyes and thoughts wander over the tall pines and green valley below the house when his wife asked him a question. His reply was the key to a long and happy marriage.

"I don't know what you're saying," he told her, "but whatever it is, it's the God's truth."

What do you say? Answer: Pass. Don't try to find a major-suit fit with less than 8 points. It is better to stop at 1 NT than to get up to the level of two or three looking for a fit that may not exist.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

LEAVING CHURCH PEW

Dear Louise: When preparing to leave their pew at the end of church services, does the father (who sits on the aisle) step out to let his son out, or is it more correct for the father to go on and let his son follow? I would like to ask the same question for a husband, wife and daughter.

Louise Davis Answers: If the son is an adult or old enough to take care of himself, he usually follows his father or catches up with him. If the boy is so young as to need paternal protection or guidance, the father stands aside in the aisle, lets his son out and sees that the boy doesn't get out of sight. When husband and wife are together in church, the husband steps into the aisle to be joined by his wife and daughter.

NIX ON CAPTIVE AUDIENCE

Dear Louise: My husband has been taking violin lessons for several years. I am so proud of him that I am always encouraging him to play for our guests when we entertain. Everybody seems to enjoy it, but my sister-in-law tells me I'm wrong. Am I? Louise Davis Answers: It would be better for you to wait for your guests to ask your husband to entertain them with his violin.

Sandburgs Wed 55 Years; Started Out With Doubts

BY RICHARD C. BAYER

PLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Carl Sandburg, whose memory matches her wit, recalled that when she married her poet husband 55 years ago Saturday they "weren't so darn sure it was going to last."

"We entered into the marriage with the agreement if either of us wanted to quit, the other would say, 'all right,'" she added. "Now we're waiting for our 75th anniversary. That will really be something."

Stayed in Background

For more than a half a century Lillian Paula Sandburg has remained quietly in the wings while her husband—poet, historian, novelist, Lincoln biographer and twice a Pulitzer Prize winner—played a leading role on the American literary stage.

Visitors to Connemara, the Sandburg farm here, are met by a woman who looks every bit the part of the 80-year-old grandmother that she is. But when the conversation starts they find a woman with a bright and youthful outlook still possessed with the desire to "exchange and express ideas."

"Better Than Whitman"

"Carl had all the makings of a pendent he wouldn't have allowed any woman to make a mess out of him," she said. "I don't believe there's a woman behind every great man."

Mrs. Sandburg was a school teacher in Princeton, Ill., when in 1907 she met Sandburg, a Social-Democratic party organizer at party headquarters in Milwaukee. Letters and poems followed her back to Illinois.

"Carl had all the makings of a good organizer. He was forthright and easy to talk with," she remembered. "But when he sent me a copy of his collection 'In Reckless Ecstasy,' I saw a different man. I thought he was just a little better than Whitman."

In six months they were married. There was no ring and "obey" was omitted from the vows.

After 55 years of married life, Mrs. Sandburg looked to the two geniuses she has known best, her husband and her brother, Edward Steichen, the renowned photographer.

"People often think artists are difficult to live with and my brother are the most reasonable people I've ever known," she said.

His Greatest Work

For Mrs. Sandburg, the poem "The People, Yes," published in the depression year 1936, is her husband's greatest piece of work.

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

One simple dress pattern can be used extensively if you change fabrics and trims to add variety.

For instance, a scooped neck, sleeveless sheath dress is ideal for summer in linen, cotton, synthetic blends, silk, etc. The trim can be one of many. Here are four that are simple to apply. Each is completely different.

1. Mark center lines of arrows 1-1/2 inches apart in the position you wish, with one shorter than the other.

2. Center grosgrain ribbon or single fold bias tape over these lines and top-stitch along the edges with matching thread.

3. For arrowhead: pin a 4-inch strip of ribbon or tape to the ironing board with pin at center of one edge of strip, right side up. Fold ends of strip under to form point, at pin and so that base of triangle measures 1-1/4 inches. Press. Place over raw end of stitched strip on garment, and stitch around triangle.

POCKET FLAPS (FIGURE B)

1. Make paper pattern of flaps and cut two. Bind curved edge with doublefold bias tape. For neat curves: Have wider fold of tape at underside. Pre-shape tape around curved flap with iron. Stitch outer edge of tape at curve. Stitch close to inner side of tape.

2. Bind top edge with bias tape.

3. To attach flaps, mark location at upper edge only. Pin flaps, wrong side up, with curve toward neck, having straight bound edge just below mark. Stitch through fabric close to binding. Fold flap down and press.

LOOP BRAID EDGING (FIGURE C)

1. Stitch braid on right side of fabric through straight edge of braid and on seamline of neckline, having braid loops toward waistline. (Zipper foot attachment is helpful for braid application.)

2. Complete neck facing as pattern instructs, being sure that neckline seam is on line of the trim stitching.

1. Make pattern for tabs, and cut two for each tab.

2. Trim one piece for each tab: Stitch a row of middy braid across center of tab. Leaving a 1/4-inch space, stitch a row on either side of center. (Leave 1/4-inch braid extending at ends to avoid fraying later.)

3. Pin trimmed tab to plain tab with right sides together. Stitch a 1/4-inch seam around edge leaving 2 inches free on one long side. Slipstitch opening closed and press.

4. Attach tabs to dress where desired by sewing through buttons at each end.

Set a Moonlit Stage for A Special Summer Picnic

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Why not plan a moonlight picnic?

The universal appeal of outdoor dining need not be limited to an afternoon picnic or barbecue. You can plan an evening picnic with left-dancing that combines the convenience of picnic foods with the formality of the party.

Set the food area on grass, sand or little tables. Oilcloth may be stretched over tables to glimmer in the moonlight or placed on the ground. Placemats of oilcloth, a pool or a room right off the bound with tape of a contrasting color, with each person's name on it may be used for sitting on the ground. Write the names on mats with an indelible magic marker. These markers may be used too for autographing the large cloths.

Cloths may be put over the individual bridge-type tables and in that case you may like to scrawl the names of all the guests.

Set Like a Stage

Set the party like a stage, whether it is outdoors or on the porch. Half the fun of your moonlight picnic will be the enchantment. Use whatever lights will further enhance the area, and small candles set in bottles help the mood.

Spray bottles gold, silver, white or a color if you like. Glue or tape shells, sequins or artificial flowers to them. Candles may be put into fruit or flower pots, if you prefer.

A moonlight punch may be served in hollowed-out pineapples, the fruit contents being used for punch. These are often cheap enough to make the idea worthwhile, especially with the useful contents serving as part of the punch.

Fill an inexpensive little picnic basket for each person. Keep everything refrigerated until time to serve it. Put a basket at each place when it is time to eat the finger foods.

Fried Chicken Good

Fried chicken is tasty and inexpensive to serve. Good hot dogs are likely to cost just as much in the long run, considering how many hungry kids can eat.

You can get extra mileage out of a chicken by getting two extra legs out of the wings. Just cut the wing at the joint, and you have a tiny leg on one side of it.

Menu: Fried chicken, thin cucumber sandwiches on white bread with mayonnaise, cole slaw.

Fiascos Occur When Facts Are Hidden From the Unsuspecting

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten days ago my husband wrote his annual breezy, full-of-hot-air letter to his sister in Phoenix. He casually mentioned it would be nice if their daughter Ellie, age 18, could come for the summer and help in the flower shop.

Three days later we got an airmail letter saying Ellie would love to and she'll be on the first bus following her graduation. Dick is flabbergasted. He says he never dreamed she'd take him up on it. Also, he isn't sure now he has a job for Ellie.

He never discussed this with me, although I am the one who would have to feed her, entertain her, chauffeur her and make sure she had a good time. Dick goes fishing every weekend and takes our sons. I must stay home with a 15-month-old toddler so my weekends aren't exactly vacations. And I'm 41 years old (boon).

Dick says he hasn't the heart (he means guts) to rescind the offer. What shall I do about this mess? — Crisis

Dear Crisis: Since Dick hasn't the heart (or the guts) to unwind the invitation then you must do it.

If this girl is not welcome, she'd feel it sooner or later. So you're damned if you do and damned if you don't. My advice is don't — and be damned.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has two sons by a former marriage. He gets the kids every summer for eight weeks. Please settle something for us in advance.

The boys are 9 and 11 years old. They are high-spirited and full of vitality, but they are obedient and I enjoy them thoroughly. The only point on which my husband and I disagree involves the refrigerator. The boys are in and out of it all day long, helping themselves to cold drinks, fruit, snacks, whatever they see. At mealtime they pick at their food because they are not hungry.

I've told my husband I am opposed to this, but he says it is part of a happy childhood. His mother was very stingy about food and he and his brothers were punished if they were caught in the ice box. He made up his mind this would never happen to his children.

I suppose he does have a point. Ann, but so do I. Will you settle it? — Second Wife

Dear Wife: There's a big difference between being stingy about food and allowing kids to eat all day long.

Set a snack time midway between lunch and supper and tell the boys they may help themselves. To allow children to eat continuously and ruin their appetites for a balanced meal does not make for a happy childhood, nor a healthy one either.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A shirt-tail cousin moved to this city several months ago. I wanted to befriend her so I gave her the names of my sister, my landlady, my day lady, an upholsterer, a carpet cleaner, a seamstress, a yard man and so on.

I guess there is such a thing as being too good a friend because now when I want the services of these people they are busy. She has given their names to her neighbors and I am out of luck. She also has spoiled them by paying more than I did, which was a dirty trick. What do you think of this sort of "friend"? — S. G. K.

Dear S. G. K.: Lincoln freed the slaves. You can't tie people up anymore and expect them to work for you alone unless you hire them full time.

The only solution is to call several weeks in advance and pay the going rate.

Lamp and Table Height

Since a lamp beside a sofa tables she wants at both ends should be comfortable to read by, might be no higher than the sofa. More than good looks must die, or the height of low sofa. Because you say the sofa, the table it stands on. The seat is 16 inches from the floor, request 20 cents in coin and a lower edge of the lamp shade. Mrs. W., you might choose 16-inch should be at the eye level of a inch high tables and lamps with seated person if the lamp is in shades that have lower edges 24 inches above the table top. Thus the table and inches above the table top. Average correct lower lampshade to locate it there. edge level is 40 inches from the floor. For a sofa without arms, like floor. If you prefer shorter lamps, the one Mrs. W. W. has, the look for proportionately taller tables. But don't make the lamps so short that the tables will look awkwardly tall, and choose shades that do not confine the light to a too narrow spread.

Mrs. H. B.: "We are tired of beige walls in our living room, but can't change our beige rug. What do you think of painting the walls pale gold to make the room less dull? The beige sofa has some gold-colored threads, one chair is gold and two chairs have small pattern in light olive. Draperies on the picture window are white with darker olive leaves across the top and partly down the sides. Furniture woods are light, and the coffee table has a travertine top."

Lively gold for the walls will be a brightening influence, but the room also needs dark contrast with so many soft medium and light colors. Introduce dark wood tones. Other rich brown and occasional deep bright colors. Possibilities are picture groupings to include positive colors and dark wood frames, decorative shelves and accessories, darkened furniture finishes, a bright accent rug to include olive, not too small and in a prominent spot.

Mrs. B. E.: "My husband wants to build a serving shelf with a heating unit in it for our dining room, which is too small to include a buffet. I like the idea but would appreciate your suggestions since I don't think more smoothly than a hot coil that inserting a hot plate would look right."

You don't need cooking temper- the furniture finish. Give the wood as the furniture and match the furniture finish. Give the shelf a deep apron both to cover warm is very convenient. Warm- part of the insert and to make it ing units, including the hot tray look substantial.

Stains on Porcelain

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: In the past several months the city put in a water softener. Previously we had hard water. From the hard water there are brown, rustlike stains on the porcelain sink and bathtub which I have tried to remove with everything I can think of without success. What can I use to remove this?

A: This type of stain, as you have found, is very difficult to remove. Not knowing what specific remedies have been tried, not sure if following is new: Try removing the stains with a solution of oxalic acid (poison), applied with a dish mop, followed by thorough rinsing with clear water. Sometimes a bleach solution is effective in removing these stains.

Q: I have two mirrors with gilt frames which have darkened. Can they be washed off? If not, could I paint them with gold paint?

A: If these are valuable frames, best to have them cleaned by a professional. Gilding is very fragile and must be gently and carefully handled.

Use an artists' camel's hair brush to apply a cleaning solution of a half and half mixture of alcohol and ammonia to the entire surface. Allow the solution to remain a few minutes to soften the grime. Then remove with clear water, also applied with an artists' brush. Do not wipe dry. Shake off any drops of water and stand frames on edge in well-ventilated place to dry naturally.

Keep Snippy Child Quiet Until She Learns Better

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Eve Jones: My 5-year-old girl is very snippy to me. She dislikes seeing me in slacks and always tells me so. The other day she told me I'm "fat, lazy and stupid." I am not fat. I sent her to her room and later asked her why she said those things to me. She answered, "Well, they're true. Eve Jones aren't they?" What can I do?

For how you act so long as you're taking care of her and giving her what she needs. Tell her you're interested in learning how she feels and what she thinks about herself and other people, but not about you.

Dear Eve Jones: Although I have always enjoyed peace and quiet, to sit serenely and think and to sip my morning coffee while making their own breakfast. Set reading the paper, these little boys are impossible because I have three girls, five, four, and two-year-olds.

They seem to resent discipline. Mrs. S. D. For example, every night there's a hassle when I insist that they tell her that it isn't her responsibility to decide what you wear pick up their clothing and toys, participate. Picking their things

And they have terrible tempers, just like mine. They're all very independent. For example, they wake up and make their own breakfasts. (In the morning, I'm in a coma. I've always loved the night and practically all my housework is done late at night.)

How can I get them to do what I ask of them without hurting their wonderful spirit of independence? First you must do what they need you to do, even if this means sacrificing some of your own spirit of independence—or is it just selfish irresponsibility? Children this age shouldn't be making their own breakfast. Set the table and put the pots on the stove at night, so you can still make breakfast even if you are in a daze.

Clean the house during the day and let them help and watch you. They'll feel grown-up as they participate. Picking their things up at bedtime will then be a natural carry-over of their growing independence.

Yes, some of the Some people go into reform movements because they have been unable to make a success of their own lives. In a world that is changing as fast as ours is, no great a concern for the past will make us incapable of meeting life's problems. U. S. Inventor Develops Contact Lenses for Red-Seeing Chickens
SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP)—A Santa Rosa inventor wants chickens to see red and to do the job he has developed contact lenses that a chicken can wear permanently.
A W. Schreiner said he noticed chickens with cataracts were better behaved than others and their egg production was good. He hit on a red plastic contrivance to distort the vision of healthy chickens.
Schreiner says since everything the chicken sees is red, bleeding injuries do not attract it and cannibalism is prevented. The birds no longer fight; they stop chickens from picking over their food and wasting it and they reduce emotional stresses and egg breakage.

BIRD HOUSING PROFITS FOR AGING ENTERPRISER

DEAR CY: My 82-year-old father, a retired consulting engineer, has had a hobby of building birdhouses, a hobby of building birdhouses, and has designed about 15 different ones. In style of architecture, they are representative of different countries of the world. He has drawn plans of each from which anyone could very easily reproduce any model. How would you suggest he go about having these make money? Should he print pictures of them in book form? I know we found nothing along this line when he first became interested in building birdhouses in his workshop.

D. DAUGHTER
DEAR D. DAUGHTER: Instead of publishing a book, have Pops print a catalog of his birdhouses, with a design of each available on order. Following World War II, when the lawn ornament craze began, a venture, some man sold do-it-yourself signs for painted wooden cut-outs and made well into five figures. Several years running he did it all by mail! Benson Helicopter goes one step farther than selling helicopter designs by offering structural components to do - it, yourselfers. Perhaps your father and sales will come slowly for you as they have for him. . . and be just as regional. Before a breakthrough to profits, a publisher in this category must expend much time and effort to become identified as a successful, specialized publisher of farm vacation listings. Once success strikes, it can gain momentum like a six horse hitch of runaway Clydesdales.

DEAR CY: * * * * * You can say, "These are shifting times" all right. Conditions keep changing so much, I can't hold a job. My wife is after me to get located and claims she is going to force me to. She has a job, so we do have some income. Can she do this to me?

NO WORKER
DEAR NO WORKER: In a sincere attempt to motivate a slothful husband, a working Indiana woman put a bullet in his hide. Being a bit too thorough, she killed the man. Go to work! It's the healthy thing to do!

Committee Put on Defensive In Junk Dealer Licensing

Inspectors Say Most Yards Violate Appleton Ordinances

The common council's welfare-dealing with junk dealers "has been very discouraging," Ald. R. P. Groh (8th) and inspectors from three municipal departments recommended a crackdown on junk dealers who did not comply with the ordinance and orders of the inspectors. They were inclined to withhold issuance of license until alleged unfavorable conditions were cleared up.

Take No Action

However, the committee took no official action. Last week the committee also declined making a recommendation to the council on junk dealer license applications but did have legislation adopted which would no longer require the wording, "Junk Dealer" on trucks of licensed firms.

The inspectors said there was a possibility "one or two" junk dealers could qualify for licenses. Aldermen were surprised to hear there are several individuals in the city conducting junk businesses who did not make application for a license. The committee wanted to know where they were, if any, and the inspectors listed names and addresses, accompanied by pictures of debris-cluttered premises.

Recommendations

Building Inspector, Charles Magnette said he would not recommend licensing any of the junk dealers. "My basis of inspection concerns zoning and buildings," Magnette said. "The ordinance says junk dealers should be located in areas zoned heavy industrial," Magnette said most were not, and cited instances in which junk overflowed into residential-zoned areas.

(Some junk dealers were operating their businesses prior to the regulation that they be located in heavy industrial-zoned districts. This represents a recognized non-conforming use because the business was there first and the ordinance came later. However, in the case of a non-conforming use, the ordinance says specifically that all junk must be contained in a building and cannot be stored outside.)

Mrs. Stillings recalled that a year ago the license of one dealer was held up on the recommendation of the fire department. Magnette contended that junk dealers not located in the properly

"Same Story"

It was apparent that the inspectors were seeking the backing of the committee and the common council, something they indicated has been lacking over the years. "It's the same story every year," one inspector told a reporter. "We point out these bad situations, make recommendations and nothing happens."

This appeared to be the case Tuesday night but this time the three committee members in attendance were split on what courses of action to take. The inspectors were called in by the committee specifically to present opinions and recommendations on junk yards.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings (7th) questioned whether the city had grounds for taking some of the junk dealers to court because the city ordinance was vague. She urged restraint and proposed the dealers be granted licenses with the stipulation they would be revoked if terms of the ordinance were not complied with.

Lectures Inspector

Mrs. Stillings also thought the city attorney should issue a legal opinion on the junk dealer situation to serve as a guide to future action. Mrs. Stillings said she was "shocked and startled" at some of the conditions alleged to exist in the city, and lectured inspectors as to why they were not called to the attention of the committee before.

The inspectors contended they have been reporting on alleged junk yard ordinance violations "for years." They claimed that lack of support from the committee and common council in

Wife Leaves Courtroom When Pictures of Dead Son Shown

Gary P. Surprise, 22, route 1, Kaukauna, charged with reckless conduct in the death of his four-month-old son Scott, took the stand in his own behalf this morning and related events of the night of Feb. 14, the night before his son died of severe head injuries.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer rested the case for the state shortly before 5 p.m. Tuesday and his client for his first witness at 9 a.m. today. The case, being heard before County Judge Gustave Keller in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, is expected to go to the jury of seven women and five men sometime this afternoon.

Tuesday's testimony was highlighted by a dramatic flight from the crowded courtroom by Surprise's young wife, Bonnie, 19, Mrs. Surprise, sitting in the front row, ran sobbing from the room, and Dr. Pearse Meighan, a pathologist, began showing color slides of her dead son shortly after noon Tuesday.

Returns to Courtroom

Mrs. Surprise returned to the room after a few moments and remained in her seat throughout the remainder of the hearing.

Mrs. Surprise broke down once again today and openly sobbed when she was asked on the witness stand to view colored photographs of her son and point out bruise marks on his body. Mrs. Surprise asked her husband's counsel, John Wile, not to show her any more pictures. The hearing was recessed for five minutes.

Testifying for the defense today was Raymond Trent, 23, 628 W. Sixth St., Appleton. At least two more witnesses are scheduled to testify this afternoon.

Surprise said today that he signed a statement Feb. 27 outlining the part he played Feb. 14 and 15 in his son's death because, he said, "I was led to believe if I gave the statement, it would clear up the whole thing. Surprise read and signed the 20-page statement 12 days after he was questioned by Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelzke.

Nervous, Confused

Surprise said he became nervous and confused during the questioning and that he had about two hours sleep in the previous 24 when he was questioned by Zuelzke immediately after a coroner's inquest Feb. 15.

Tuesday, Dr. Pearse Meighan testified that death of the Surprise infant was due to a subdural hemorrhage (head injury) which may have been brought about by a blow to the head.

In cross-examination, Dr. Meighan said the hemorrhage could have been brought about by complications of a disease such as pneumonia.

Slapped Baby

Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelzke testified from a 20-page statement taken from Surprise on Feb. 15 and 16 in which Surprise stated he had become irritated with the fussing child. He said he gave the baby a bottle which it did not

City Hall Parking Lot Controversy Flares Up Again

Latest Rumble Triggered by Suggestion to Remove Fence

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The festering city hall parking lot controversy flared anew Tuesday.

Triggering the latest rumble, which may be the loudest in the eight-year battle over the lot and who should use it, was a suggestion that the city tear down an old fence and install a 30-inch wide concrete slab along the southern border of the lot.

Officials of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., which will be moving into a new service center on property adjoining the city hall lot, asked Public Works Director Robert W. Bues to take the matter up with the board of public works.

Bues recommended tearing down the "bad-looking fence" and installing the slab at a cost of about $500. He said this would prevent cars parked in the city hall lot from hanging over the power company property.

Not Aware

Unfortunately, Bues was not aware of the sensitivity city officials have concerning the parking lot. It was the subject of a major ruckus which continued last fall and winter — resulting in the lot being put under ordinance so it could be regulated. The present policy is for city employees and people doing business at city hall to park on a first come, first served basis.

However, there has been a build-up of incidents in recent weeks that again has city officials and others at the boiling point.

For example, as the board was discussing the lot, a few members learned a car with a "for sale" sign had been parked there most of the day.

City inspector and department heads complained they are required to be on the job at 8 a.m. but have to get to city hall before 7:30 a.m. to get a parking place. One official reported that four vacant spaces when he arrived at that time Tuesday morning.

Employees Complain

There also have been complaints of city hall employees parking at metered spaces in front of the city hall and on surrounding streets. Several have received parking violation tickets, and some have been turned over to the mayor's office for cancellation.

Reports were aired that firemen, clerks in nearby stores, residents of an apartment house, downtown shoppers and nearby construction workers have been parking in the city hall lot.

Mayor Mitchell said emphatically that he favored installation of parking meters in the lot, along with reserving parking places for the inspectors.

City Clerk Elden Broehm said he felt a parking space in the lot was one of the fringes included in having a car allowance from the common council. "Where are you going to draw the line as to who should park in the lot?" he asked.

The question was raised by what authority parking tickets were being cancelled for city department heads and employees because such a practice was not covered by ordinance.

Remove Fence

"I thought the suggestion that the city spruce up the one side of the lot and take down that old fence was a reasonable idea," Bues commented. "Getting rid of that junky fence is a matter of improving the looks of the downtown area."

Three Persons Tossed From Auto In Two-Car Crash

Three persons, including a 1-year-old child, were tossed from their car, but escaped serious injury Tuesday in a two-car collision on E. Wilson at S. Jackson streets.

Injured when they were thrown out of their car were Mrs. Donald Dobbe, 25, and her sons, James, 4, and Douglas, 1, all of 1509 N. Graceland Ave.

Receiving cuts but not hospitalized was Roger L. Hanneman, 27, 1136 Van Buren St., Oshkosh, driver of the second car.

Police said the Hanneman car was being driven east on E. Wilson Street and Mrs. Dobbe was driving north on S. Jackson Street when the two vehicles collided. The injured were taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance Service.

Massive Search Conducted for Uh-Nah-Li-Ya Director's Son Reported Missing on Outing

MOUNTAIN — A massive search is underway at the Green Bay YMCA Camp near here for the missing two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Cedarblade, Green Bay.

The child was reported missing about 5:45 p.m. Tuesday when he was out of the sight of his mother for about two minutes.

Cedarblade is director of Camp Uh-Nah-Li-Ya, an 80-acre youth camp owned by the YMCA. The camp is used each summer by the Appleton YMCA.

Cedarblade had left the camp with all the campers about 5:30 p.m. for a cookout at Bonita about five miles away. He was accompanied by another son, Frank, 5.

Behind at the camp were Mrs. Lynn Cedarblade, and two other Cedarblade children, David, about six months, and Douglas, 2, and Mrs. Ben Cushman, chief cook at the camp.

100 Searchers

More than 100 searchers were combing the dense Nicolet National Forest for the child. Authorities believe he wandered into the woods, probably in an effort to locate his father.

Mrs. Cushman said, "We ate supper with the two youngest Cedarblade children in one of the cabins. The oldest boy, Frank, 5, had accompanied his father on the cookout."

"Lynn (Mrs. Cedarblade) did some washing in the laundry cabin and the little boy, who had accompanied her, was playing near the door she told me later."

She said that Mrs. Cedarblade told her that when she had finished the washing she went to the camp director's cabin to peek at the baby.

"Lynn told me she was gone only about two minutes when she returned to the laundry cabin and noticed that Douglas was missing," Mrs. Cushman said.

Searches Water

"She then called him and getting no response, she feared that he may have wandered down to the water about 20 yards away."

"She put on her swimming suit and searched the shallow water, but couldn't find him," Mrs. Cushman related.

Mrs. Cedarblade then drove to get Mrs. Cushman, about a half mile away, to seek her help in the search for Douglas.

Both of them looked in the woods, brush and along the edge of the lake.

Mrs. Cushman then ran to the roadside and stopped a trucker, who said he would notify neighbors in the area. There is no telephone at the camp.

One of the neighbors called the sheriff's office at Oconto and a search was organized immediately.

Sheriff Edward Coopman and Undersheriff Rupert Haave directed the search during the night. More than 100 men and Boy

1,753 Enrollment at OSC Sets Record Number for Summer School

OSHKOSH — The summer session enrollment at Wisconsin State College-Oshkosh, reached a record high Tuesday as 1,753 students attended their first classes of the session. The figure is expected to climb somewhat higher with late registrations, according to L. O. Tetzlaff, college registrar.

The 1963 total exceeds the record 1,507 students enrolled last summer by 246.

The new record figure represents students enrolled in all three summer programs offered by the college, which includes an 8-week undergraduate program, an 8-week graduate program, and a 12-week undergraduate program. The 8-week sessions will end on August 2, and the 12-week on August 30.

Enrollments in summer sessions have increased gradually in recent years, with the exception of 1960. Recent summer enrollment figures include 1,213 in 1959; 1,158 in 1960; 1,378 in 1961; and 1,507 in 1962. Ten years ago, the summer enrollment stood at 623.

This fall the college expects a regular term enrollment of about 4,000 students. Last fall, with enrollment of 3,324 OSC was the largest college in the state.

Judge Sebora Praises Annex

Says Dictatorship, Impartial Court Mix Like Oil, Water

CHILTON — "An impartial court and a dictatorship mix like oil and water," County Judge D. H. Sebora commented during dedication ceremonies Tuesday of the new $234,172 Calumet County Courthouse Annex.

Judge Sebora, Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane, County Board Chairman L. H. Huijbregtse, and World War I Veteran Wilber Winch spoke at the dedication, which followed the June county board session.

"The County Board, as representatives of the people of Calumet County, is to be commended for providing these excellent court facilities. It is an indication of its appreciation of the courts and what they mean in our way of life," Judge Sebora said.

The courthouses are among the finest in the state, Judge Sebora added, pointing out that they are replicas of the courthouses at Elkhorn. The Elkhorn courthouses were the architects, who designed both courthouses, professional honors.

Lauds Board

Judge Cane lauded the board and County Clerk Roland Miller for the work in planning the structure and seeing it through to completion. "I am truly proud to

4 Prisoners Flee Prison At Waupun

MADISON (AP)—Warden John Burke of the state prison in Waupun reported that four prisoners were missing Tuesday night.

He identified one as Aubrey G. Nichols, 39, sentenced for forgery, and said Nichols fled while on chauffeur duty in Madison.

Nichols drove two guards and two prisoners to University Hospitals and fled on foot while the guards were talking to hospital officials, the warden said.

Burke said the other men fled while working in a prison warehouse on the outskirts of Waupun. He identified them as Robert S. Albasini, 38, sentenced for forgery; Earl W. Jackson, 25, sentenced for burglary, and Pete Decorah, 27, sentenced for second degree murder, assault with intent to commit bodily harm and burglary.

The usual all-points alert was broadcast.

preside in these surroundings," Judge Cane said.

"A building like this just doesn't happen," said Huijbregtse. He echoed Judge Cane's praise of Miller, and the board members and said that all citizens of the county should feel a sense of pride over the building.

"The courts are the front door of democracy," Huijbregtse said in conclusion. He thanked the veterans groups for the two flags they donated to the county—one for each courtroom.

Seven American Legion posts and their auxiliary chapters, the county Veterans of Foreign Wars post and its auxiliary and the Calumet Barracks, Veterans of World War I, contributed toward the flags.

Voices Opposition to Multiple Service Bill

Winnebago County Board Asks Study of Senator Large Proposal

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County Board Tuesday, in a voice get together on doing things. It was originally designed to permit the purchase of Stroebe's Island for a park, he said.

Claims No Check, Balances

Kohler said there were existing laws available for the same purpose. In his resolution, he stated the proposed bill would "hand powers to a group of unelected individuals without the usual checks and balances which insure that such powers will not be abused."

The resolution was introduced by Supv. Earl L. Kohler (Second Ward, Menasha) who said the bill would take away the powers of the county board and would "open the way for exploiters."

The proposed bill would provide the machinery for communities to jointly undertake and provide metropolitan facilities which would extend across political boundaries with the power to undertake various projects. Examples would be the proposed Fox Valley Expressway System and the proposal to buy Stroebe's Island for a district park.

Supv. Amos Page, (Town of Menasha), said the bill was decal governments to a new commission."

Kohler said he was not opposed to the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission but only to the creation of the multiple service district when existing laws already give communities the same power.

Several supervisors said they felt they did not have enough information on the bill to vote at this time. Supv. E. G. Steinhilber said they could vote for the resolution now and reverse themselves after the judiciary committee reports.

A copy of the county board action is to be sent to all Wisconsin county boards.

In other action, new road signs will be installed on the various town roads recently renamed in the county when the new county map was produced. The county highway department will put up the signs which are to be furnished by the various towns.

The responsibility of designating agents throughout the county to handle the sale of conservation licenses will now be in the hands of the Board's taxation committee.

Up until now, the county clerk named the agents and was responsible for any loss incurred by any of the agents. However, the clerk no longer receives any fees from the sale of the licenses and the responsibility should be assumed by the Board, supervisors felt.

The board approved transfer of $9,583 from the inactive handicapped school fund to cover a deficit in the high school transportation fund.

A request to rezone approximately 21 acres of land on U.S. 41, north of the 41 Outdoor Theater, from agriculture and commercial to entirely commercial, was referred to the zoning committee.

Outagamie County Board Discusses High-Speed Chases at Meeting

The Outagamie County Board (ton-11th) asked Spice whether it Tuesday afternoon decided to was a county police policy to stop meet with law enforcement offi- and investigate all cars parked cials to discuss enforcement pol- on country roads.

In the afternoon, Sheriff Calvin Spice appeared before the board. He told supervisors the police- man's job is to enforce the law, and the question at hand seemed to be whether to apprehend a vi- olator when the violation occurs, or to "wait a day or two and do nothing."

Spice defended county patrol- man Robert Keating, who con- ducted the chase of June 5. "I would have driven at the same speed in this case," he said. "He (Keating) saw an object thrown from the car. It was a case of beer, but it was the same size as a cash register, and it could have been."

Spice said a person he arrest- ed for a violation is appealing his case to circuit court now, claiming he wasn't driving the auto at the time of the violation. The Sheriff said taking a license number doesn't work, because the patrolman can not prove who was driving.

If the board would set a speed limit on a chase, Spice said, ev- eryone would evade arrest by going faster than the patrolman's limit.

Supv. Arthur Hoolihan (Apple- ton-7th) who started the morn- ing's debate, said a minimum of- (Cooney) Esler (Appleton-18th) fense to necessitate a chase should be set. Catlin said the minimum would result in better law enforcement and reduce the danger of a chase.

zoned areas was grounds for not reissuing their licenses.

At this point, Mrs. Stillings said it was not the responsibility of the common council, but rather the authorities, to administer the laws.

However, Magnette, along with fire and health department repre- sentatives, claimed it was up to the committee and council to de- termine whether to grant junk dealer licenses to firms and in- dividuals conducting the "sloppy" type of operations they described.

"Well, this committee could say nobody will be granted a license until meeting requirements," Mrs. Stillings said. The other alterna- tive, she said, would be to grant licenses with stipulations.

Revelations

Among the revelations by the inspectors were that: One local junk dealer has been using a building for storage of junk which has not been regis- tered with the city, a violation of the ordinance which states a license can be granted for one place only.

In addition to storing junk in residential areas, there have been instances in which deal- ers infringe on city property for storage purposes.

Another dealer reportedly was taken to court recently on com- plaint by the State Industrial Commission that his building represented a safety hazard and did not comply with state build- ing codes.

No Licenses

There are some people con- ducting junk operations in Ap- pleton who do not hold licenses and have not applied for them.

In one residential area, the Boy Scouts use the garage of an Appleton resident for storing papers and other debris on a year-around basis — a violation of the junk ordinance and health regulations.

One machine shop operator has established what amounts to a junk yard on his premises.

Rat Harborage Areas

Most of the alleged ordinance violators are creating health and safety hazards, in addition to rat harborage areas.

There are "just a few" junk dealers who come close to com- plying with city regulations.

ish, and then he slapped the baby twice.

In the statement, Surprise told interrogators he wanted the baby to finish the bottle because the baby would be awake and hungry sooner if the bottle wasn't finished.

Surprise was alone with the baby at the time, the statement said. Zuelzke said that Surprise stated that he and his wife had "had words" that evening and Surprise had been drinking be- fore he slapped the baby.

Large Bruises

Surprise also said in the state- ment that he would often "snap his fingers" across the baby's buttocks, making the baby cry. When the child was taken to the hospital Feb. 14, hospital author- ities noted large bruises on the buttocks.

Surprise also stated that he would often bounce the baby on the bed and "often times would get carried away and bounce the baby too high, and the baby would get scared," Surprise said he often played rough with the child, but "never thought that I hurt him."

Zuelzke said Surprise stated that on the night of Feb. 14 he was not drunk but that he was tired and edgy. Surprise stated that he suffered from ulcers and his stomach was hurting in the statement. Surprise told interro- gators he was half asleep when he gave the bottle to the baby "and might have struck him."

"Feeling Good"

Surprise said in his statement he might have grabbed the child and shouted for him to "shut up."

Although Surprise said that he was not drunk, he related in his statement later that he was "feel- ing good," and that he had drunk a peppermint schnapps. He said he was not used to drinking hard liquor.

the driver lost control on a curve on County Trunk Z, knocked down several guard rails and broke off a telephone pole, according to Ernest Danielson, chief of police.

The driver, Donald J. DeGoev, 19, route 4, Appleton, was order- ed to appear in municipal justice court this afternoon to answer charges of failure to have his vehicle under control. Danielson said the car traveled 780 feet after striking the telephone pole before the driver was able to stop.

Braves Fall to Eighth Place After 8-7 Loss

Phillies Score Two Runs in Last Of 10th for Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Milwaukee Braves Manager Bobby Bragan took a gamble Tuesday night by starting rookie bonus pitcher Dan Schneider against the Philadelphia Phillies and lost.

And so did the Braves, by a score of 8-7 in 10 innings. The defeat dropped them into eighth place, a game behind the Phillies and only a game in front of the Houston Colts.

Young Schneider, a lefty, lasted only 2 2/3 innings in his major league starting debut, allowing four runs, two of them unearned, five hits, three walks and tossing a wild pitch. He fanned one.

However, the defeat went to Bob Shaw, the fourth Milwaukee hurler, who had appeared on the way to a victory after the Braves pushed over a tie-breaking run in the top of the 10th.

Callison Triples
Shaw, now 2 and 4, saw Johnny Callison open the 10th with a triple. After one out, Don Demeter's bounding single to center scored Callison with the tying run Roy Sievers added a single and former Brave Frank Torre was given an intentional walk to load the bases. Then another former Brave, catcher Clay Dalrymple, delivered a single and the deciding run.

The batting star for the Braves was shortstop Roy McMillan who collected three run-scoring singles as Milwaukee pulled from behind.

The Phillies loaded the bases in the first on a walk for Tony Taylor, a single by Callison and walk for Tony Gonzales. A walk for Jim Lemon forced in a run. A single, a sacrifice that left everybody safe and an error loaded the bases in the second ahead of Demeter's two-run double. A single by Lemon, a sacrifice and a run-scoring single by Philadelphia starter Cal McLish gave the Phillies a 3-2 lead in the third and sent the 20-year-old Schneider, who received a $100,000 bonus, to the showers.

The Braves had scored twice in their second as Mack Jones walked and stole the first of his four bases ahead of a walk for Larker. Jones stole third and scored as McLish threw wild in an attempt to get him at third. Del Crandall's single scored Larker.

Milwaukee went in front in the sixth as Lee Maye tripled and scored on Hank Aaron's fly out.

An 18-hole qualifying round is scheduled for Monday with match play beginning Tuesday. The team champion will be determined on the basis of Monday's medal play.

Arizona State is the defending team champion and will send three players to this year's tournament in addition to Miss Sorenson.

'Father of UW Basketball' Chris Steinmetz, Sr., UW Cage Great, Dies

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Chris Steinmetz Sr., whose basketball son Athletic Hall of Fame in 1958 Steinmetz was an attorney as Wisconsin just after the turn of the century prompted the school to hire its first coach, died Tuesday of a stroke. He was 80.

Steinmetz had been in poor health since suffering a stroke a year ago and entered a hospital after a second stroke three weeks ago.

In the days when players wore knickerbockers and games were decided by scores of 15-10 and 20-18, Steinmetz scored as many as 50 points in one game. Two of his free throw records may never be broken.

His single game high, at a time when one player took all of his team's free throws, was 26 against the Two Rivers Athletic Club. His high for a single season was 238.

Steinmetz, often called "the father of basketball at the University of Wisconsin," began his Badger cage career in 1903. He was named to the National Basketball Hall of Fame in 1961 after being given a place in the Helms Foundation Hall of Fame four years

Houston Colt Catcher John Bateman looks to umpire for the call as he tagged out Chicago Cub Ernie Banks in Tuesday night's game in Houston. Banks had tagged up and tried to score from third base on Nelson Mathews' fly ball but was out when Brock Davis came up with a perfect throw to the plate. Houston won, 6-2, in 10 innings. Indians Down Orioles for Fifth in Row

BY JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Birdie Tebbetts has changed his tune. He was whistling the blues not so very long ago—but now he's chirping merrily.

The reason is simple. Birdie's Cleveland Indians are making the hottest music in the American League.

They made it five victories in a row Tuesday night with a home run crescendo that drowned out Baltimore's off-key Orioles, 9-5.

The Indians, next-to-last in the standings and 9 1/2 games behind just 10 days ago, now have won eight of their last 10 and climbed to seventh, five games off the pace.

First to Third
Meanwhile, the drooping Orioles have dropped 10 of 12 and fallen from first to third. They're a game behind the Chicago White Sox, who were trimmed 8-6 by Minnesota, and eight percentage points behind the New York Yankees, who were idle.

In other AL action, 15th-inning homers by Frank Malzone and Dick Stuart and another superb relief job by Dick Radatz carried Boston over Detroit 7-3 and Kansas City beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Washington was idle, along with the Yankees.

The St. Louis Cardinals took over first in the National League, while Los Angeles slipped to second. The Cards downed Pittsburgh 3-1 and San Francisco blanked the Dodgers 3-0. Also, Houston whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-2 in 10 innings, Philadelphia took an 8-7 decision over Milwaukee in 10 innings, and Cincinnati walloped the New York Mets 8-3.

Al Luplow, Fred Whitfield and Dick Howser socked Cleveland homers off Robin Roberts and Willie Kirkland connected with two on against Wes Stock in the Indians' four-run seventh inning.

Mudcat Grant yielded a two-run homer to Al Smith in Baltimore's eighth, then was lifted in a rube-rube-ridden ninth. With one run in and the bases loaded, Bob Allen came on in relief and pitched two balls to Jim Gentile.

Tebbetts then called in Ted Abernathy—despite the rule that says a reliever must finish pitching to at least one man—and manager Billy Hitchcock of the Orioles protested.

Allen was recalled, walked Gentile and forced in a run, then Abernathy got the last out. Grant is 4-6 and so is Roberts, who was bombed for three doubles and a

Ewbank Grabs 2 Rookies but Plans to Swoop on Cut-Offs

NEW YORK (AP) — The have-not clubs of the American Football League plan to swoop on the cut-offs from the more affluent clubs of the AFL and the rival National Football League like hawks after a flock of pigeons.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets of the AFL said so after he plucked two rookies and the Oakland Raiders picked one veteran in the special league draft Tuesday to help the two weak clubs.

The Jets, formerly known as the Titans under the old management, took tackle Jeff Shabugh of Indiana from Buffalo and end Gene Heeter of West Virginia from San Diego. The Raiders drafted Claude Gibson, a defensive half-back, from San Diego.

The rookies cost the Jets $2,500 each plus any bonuses the players received. Gibson cost the Raiders $7,500.

In the special draft set up to help the two clubs, each of the other six teams in the AFL was permitted to reserve 25 veterans and half their rookies and free agents before the Jets and Raiders were allowed to pick.

"I think the league made an honest effort to help us," said Ewbank, former coach of the Baltimore Colts of the NFL. "But it is obvious by looking at the lists in our league and the National Football League that the other teams can't keep all their good players."

"We will be able to grab them later for nothing, so there's no sense paying for them now," Ewbank said the last college draft provided lots of talent. He should know. He picked for the Colts.

"I figure there are five players who will make the Baltimore team, for example," he said. "That means five veterans are going to be cut. I'll get a crack at them. The same situation is true elsewhere."

Yesterday's Stars
By The Associated Press
BATTING—Willie McCovey, Giants, hit three-run homer for 3-0 victory over Los Angeles that dropped Dodgers out of National League lead.

PITCHING — Dick Radatz, Red Sox, pitched scoreless ball, allowing only three hits, over final 8 2/3 innings in 7-3, 15-inning triumph over Detroit.

California and Washington are the question marks, according to Rutgers Coach Bill Leavitt who seemed to speak for the other coaches.

"On paper the Huskies and the Bruins seem to be pretty even," Leavitt said Tuesday. "But, we don't know whether or not they are in the same class as Cornell. That's something we won't find out about until Saturday."

Cornell's crew, undefeated in collegiate competition, is a heavy favorite in the three-mile race.

Packers Hold Pre-Camp QB, Rookie School

Dave Robinson, Terry Zang Among Those on Hand

GREEN BAY (AP)—Veteran quarterback Bart Starr was in line Tuesday when Green Bay Packers Coach Vince Lombardi called the roll at a pre-training camp school for signal callers and interested rookies.

The school is limited to classroom sessions. The defending National Football League champions will open their training camp in mid-July when they start preparations for the annual College All-Star game.

Among those registered Tuesday was the Packers' No. 1 draft choice, Dave Robinson of Penn State, who will report to the All-Star camp next month.

Also present was Terry Zang, former Marquette quarterback who was signed as a free agent after ending his collegiate career at Drake. He completed 60 per cent of his passes last season.

Others on hand were Gary Kroner, the Packers' seventh draft pick from Wisconsin; Chuck Morris, Mississippi halfback; Thurman Walker, Illinois end; Marv Fleming, Utah end; Preston Wright, Houston center; James Holler, South Carolina linebacker; John Johnson, San Jose halfback; John Barrett, Fresno State end, and Joseph Thorne, South Dakota State halfback.

Florida State Nips Arizona in 11th, 4-3

Danny Litwhiler Tries Desperately to Save Game a Second Time

BY JERRY GREEN
OMAHA (AP)—Danny Litwhiler grew accustomed to losing as an outfielder with the Philadelphia Phillies during the 1940s, but he never liked it.

He still doesn't like it as coach of Florida State in the college baseball World Series.

Florida State blew an 11-inning decision to Arizona 4-3 Tuesday night in the top thriller so far of the NCAA's double elimination tournament. The loss came after a series of frantic strategy maneuvers by Litwhiler.

Litwhiler, who once played an entire season without an error, watched his club make three including one in the crucial eleventh. Three of the four Wildcat runs were unearned.

"Had to Be Good"
"Arizona had to be a good club," rumbled the old National League outfielder originally from Bloomsburg, Pa. "We're not going to be beaten by any humpty-dumpty outfit."

Arizona qualified to meet Missouri, a 3-2 victor over Texas, in the last of a tripleheader tonight. The other games match Penn State, which eliminated Western Michigan 3-0, against Texas and Southern California, which ousted Holy Cross 6-5 against Florida State.

Missouri and Arizona are the only unbeaten teams left. The four other survivors are 1-1.

Arizona tested Litwhiler's strategy when Hector Barnette led off the bottom of the ninth with a triple with the score tied 3-3. Litwhiler, jumping out of the dugout and barking orders on nearly every pitch, had Al Thomas walk the next two batters to load the bases.

Duplicate Situation
But Arizona duplicated the situation in the bottom of the eleventh and this time Litwhiler could not save his club. Barnette led off with a single and Augie Acune beat out a bunt, the two runners advancing when Thomas threw the ball away.

Litwhiler again ordered the bases filled with an intentional walk, but Arizona pitcher Jim Nichols slashed the ball into the hole between short and third to score Barnette with the winning run.

"We would have gotten out of it again except for the error," complained the old outfielder who once fielded 1,000.

Missouri also capitalized on errors to keep the unbeaten pace with the Wildcats. All three of Missouri's runs were unearned as Rich Peterson beat Texas with a five-hitter.

Southern California wiped out a four-run deficit with a six-run rally in the seventh in its victory over Holy Cross. Penn State beat Western Michigan by scoring three runs in the first.

Dodgers Lose, Fall Out of League Lead

Cards Move Into First With Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ask Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers who W.M. is on the San Francisco Giants and what do you think he'd say?

Willie Mays?

Nope—Willie McCovey. As far as Drysdale's concerned Mays is easy compared to McCovey, who doesn't exactly own the Los Angeles pitcher, but hits him often enough to hold a first mortgage.

McCovey did it again Tuesday night, tagging Drysdale for a three-run homer that gave the Giants a 3-0 victory over Los Angeles behind Juan Marichal's strong pitching and dropped the Dodgers out of the National League lead.

McCovey now has tagged Drysdale for 3 homers, 4 doubles, 1 triple and a covey of singles since he joined the Giants in 1959. The slugging outfielder is 21-for-46, a .457 average over-all against Drysdale, last year's 25-game winner hogged down at 7-7 this season.

First Shutout
McCovey's homer provided more than enough margin for Marichal, who posted his first shutout of the season and brought his record to 9-3 with a seven-hitter that left the flip-flop Giants only .002 points behind the second-place Dodgers.

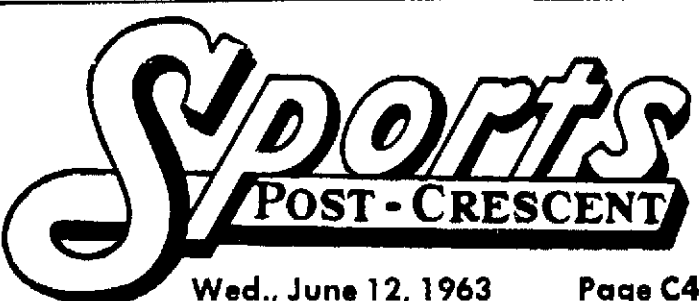

The St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1 victors over Pittsburgh on Bob Gibson's pitching and batting, are sitting on top of the standings, one game in front of the two West Coast rivals.

In other NL games, Houston belted Chicago's Cubs 6-2 on Bob Aspromonte's 10th inning grand slam homer. Cincinnati whipped the New York Mets 8-3 and Philadelphia outlasted Milwaukee 8-7 in 10 innings.

Marichal got the Giants' winning rally in the sixth inning started with a single. Chuck Hiller bunted him along, then Felipe Alou followed with a single that got Marichal over to third. McCovey let him walk home, hitting his 11th homer of the season and wrapping up a sweep of the two-game series after the Giants had lost seven in a row going into the meeting at Los Angeles.

Loaded Bases
Marichal was in difficulty only once, when the Dodgers loaded the bases with two out in the third

Foxes Drop Pair of 1-Run Decisions to Commodores, 1-0, 3-2

Chuck Embrey Slams Home Run In Second Game

DECATUR, Ill. — A pair of fine pitching efforts went for three runs in the first two frames before settling down. Decatur dropped a pair of 1-run decisions to Decatur Tuesday night.

Decatur won the first game, 1-0, with a run in the sixth inning and the Commodores scored early to take the nightcap, 3-2.

Ed Petryshyn was the loser in the first game for the Foxes although he limited Decatur to five hits. Nick DeMatteis of the winners had the Indian sign on the Foxes' hitters and allowed only one hit, an infield single by Chuck Embrey in the first inning.

Paul Campbell got off to a shaky start in the second game for the Foxes and was nicked for three runs in the first two frames before settling down. Decatur managed only one base hit after the second frame but the Foxes could muster no more than two runs on Embrey's long homer with a man on in the top of the third.

Decatur won the first game when Rod Bode singled after two were out in the sixth, stole second and romped home on Bob Marshall's single.

Embrey Singled
The Foxes had a man as far as second base in the first inning when Embrey singled off the pitcher's glove after Donnie Nichols had been safe on an error. However, DeMatteis got the next two batters, one on a popout and the other on a strikeout, to retire the side.

The only other Fox to reach second was Bob Lewandowski in the sixth but he was left stranded.

The win was the third against two losses for DeMatteis and his second consecutive shutout. Petryshyn now has a 3-2 record.

In the second game, Decatur counted a run in the first inning when Doug Wilson doubled, went

'Adler' Tourney Entry List Grows to 76

Deadline for Entries Set 5 p.m. Thursday

The entry list for the ninth annual Adler Brau amateur golf tournament has grown to 76, according to Laymon Wonsner, tourney director.

The deadline for mail entries is midnight tonight. Entries will be accepted at the Neenah Bridgwood clubhouse until 5 p.m. Thursday.

Last year, 116 golfers played in the five divisions. Wonsner expects at least that many — and possibly more — this year.

Among the latest entrants are two more professional football players. They are Jess Whitten, considered the best Packer golfer, and former Packer Tom Bettis, now with the Bears.

Don Strutz is the defending champion in the tournament, which will be played Saturday and Sunday (18 holes each day) at the Bridgwood course.

Competition will also be in four other flights: A, B, senior championship and senior "A."

Ortiz Irked At WBA for Taking Title

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, who has become accustomed to collecting $60,000 purses for title defenses, said today he is going to talk to his lawyers about the action of the World Boxing Association in stripping him of his crown.

The 26-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker charged the WBA has no authorization to depose him.

"They are acting in a dictatorial way, as they always have," said Ortiz, holder of the lightweight championship for 14 months. "I have received several offers for title defenses at between $60,000 and $70,000 and all I have seen in the papers is something about some promoters offering $30,000 for a fight against Kenny Lane.

"It is ridiculous to expect me to fight him for 30 grand when I can get 60."

In Englewood, N.J., Ortiz' advisor, Bill Daly, said he had bonafide offers for the big money for title fights with Flash Elorde in Manila, Dave Charnley in London and Carlos Hernandez in Caracas, Venezuela.

The WBA announced at Spokane its withdrawal of recognition from Ortiz Tuesday because of his failure to defend against Lane, a long-time No. 1 contender from Muskegon, Mich.

Fremont's Reputation As a Fishing Center Enhanced This Spring

Snead Earns 23rd Shot at 'Open' Crown

Dickinson Leads Qualifying With 135; Jerry Barber Fails

BY DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

There'll be a draw among the broad a's at Brookline, Mass., next week. Sam Snead's earned his 23rd shot at the National Open golf title he's never won.

What pint-sized Jerry Barber and three other PGA champions, former Open champ Lew Worsham, and a batch of tour regulars including Ken Venturi couldn't manage, the 51-year-old Snead did impressively in the nationwide showdown eliminations for America's premier tournament.

Competing with 114 hot-shots in the toughest sectional qualifying competition of them all at Purchase, N.Y., Snead fired rounds of 69 and 71 for a 140 total that easily put him among the 150-man line-up for the Open at The Country Club in Brookline, June 20-22.

His 23rd Try

It'll be try No. 23 for the drawing West Virginia slammer, for whom the Open has been a shut case. This time — as usual — Snead thinks he has a chance...with reservations.

"I'll settle for hitting the ball as well at Brookline next week," Snead drawled after nailing one of the 45 berths at stake at Purchase, close by Rye, N.Y., where the Thunderbird Classic — a $100,000 "tune-up" for the Brookline extravaganza — opens Thursday.

"But I made some shots I'd better not make up there."

The last 99 places for Brookline were determined at seven locations Tuesday, with 45 berths awarded at Purchase, 20 at Detroit, 10 at Pittsburgh, 7 each at Atlanta and Winchester, Mass., 6 at Bakersfield, Calif., and 4 at Fort Worth. The first 30 were selected Monday at six other spots.

The 129 survivors will join 21 exempt players, headed by defending champion Jack Nicklaus, in next week's battling for the 63rd Open championship.

Among the chief players missing will be Barber, the 1961 PGA champion; Worsham, winner of the Open in 1947 in a playoff with Snead; former PGA winners Jim Turnesa, Jim Ferrier and Denny Shute; and such regulars on the PGA tour as Venturi, Don Whitt, Bill Collins, Rex Baxter and Jerry Steelsmith.

Dickinson Leads

Barber's 36-hole total of 151 shut him out at Detroit, where veteran Gardner Dickinson led the field — as well as the nation — with rounds of 68-67-135.

Venturi, Whitt, Steelsmith, Baxter, Collins, Turnesa and Ferrier were casualties in the New York eliminations, won by Bob Schoener Jr., 24-year-old son and assistant to a public links professional in Bethlehem, Pa. Schoener had a 139 total, topping Snead, Australia's Kel Nagle and power-hitting George Bayer by one stroke.

In addition to Nicklaus, the 20 other automatic qualifiers were pros: Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Tony Lama, Gene Littler, Billy Casper, Tommy Bolt, Phil Rodgers, Bobby Nichols, Gay Brewer, Tommy Jacobs, Doug Ford, Billy Maxwell, Doug Sanders, Art Wall, Bob Rosburg, Bob Goalby, Bruce Crampton, Dave Harris, and Dick Davies.

Fishing is a never-ending sport in Fremont and anywhere you go it can quickly become the starting point for a conversation.

However, Fremont's reputation, not only throughout this state, but into neighboring Illinois, Indiana and Michigan as well, has been built up mainly through the spring walleyed pike and white bass runs.

Came Early

This spring was an exception for Fremont. The walleyes came early and the white bass stayed late. Sandwiched in between were weeks of some of the best fishing this bustling community has seen in many a moon.

The white bass run was fantastic. The silver-sided battlers moved up river quickly this spring and went considerably further up the river than under usual conditions. The fish bit well on the way up and even better on their way back down-river to Lake Winnebago.

Huge stringers of white bass were brought off the river. The fish weren't fussy. They were hungry and bit on a variety of baits, not just minnows as in past years. Many were caught right off shore with artificial baits tossed out with spinning gear.

Along with the white bass run, the Fremont area again provided some top-notch northern pike and panfish angling this spring.

The panfish will continue to bite through the summer months and Partridge Lake will be the center of attraction. As June wears on, the weeds will continue to push closer to the surface of the water. However, this should not bother the fisherman. Near the central and north-central part of the lake there are some "holes" where the weeds will not be too bothersome and almost always perch, bluegill or crappie will be on hand to nibble on a worm.

Partridge Lake has the advantage of being small enough that it can be fished, even on very windy days, and still it is big enough to give anglers plenty of room to move around in. Along with the panfish, the lake offers some good black bass fishing in the late evening hours during the summer.

Cottages are available for vacationers in the Fremont area. Since many of the out-of-state fishermen concentrate on the early spring fishing around Fremont, it is usually possible to get cottages at good rates during the summer.

Sobering Experience for Hunters

Wyoming Rock Slide Nearly Disastrous

Post-Crescent News Service

CODY, Wyo. — Percentagewise, our hunting party was probably in more physical danger during the five hours we spent driving across Wisconsin to catch a Northern Pacific train at Minneapolis than it was in Wyoming's mountains.

But the unknown compounds danger in any person's mind and a horseback trip into the mountains is not nearly so familiar as pushing an automobile over a well-marked highway. Nor was the mountain trip without its hazards.

We camped at about 8,000 feet. You must climb to get there. We also climbed to better than 10,000 feet looking for grizzly bear when they didn't hit the baits we had set out. This meant going up narrow mountain trails, often with a sheer cliff on one side and a sheer drop off on another. What goes up must come down, and the coming down is often as frightening as going up.

A False Move

There may be some persons not bothered by narrow trails, heights and the possibility that horses, not being the world's most intelligent animals, can make some false move that will take you over the edge. Jerry Kramer, Packer offensive guard, seems to be one of these.

But, while not being able to Whitey, who was leading the way, stopped to rest the horses, who were laboring a bit during the steep climb. This put Frost and myself in a rather bad place to stand, a narrow corner of slippery rock and we hollered for those ahead to move up. I moved over the treacherous place and then heard hooves scrambling behind me.

Just what happened is hard to describe. I saw Frost go down the rock slide, his horse tumbling behind him and narrowly missing him. To say they went off a sheer cliff would be an exaggeration—but not too great a one. Frost actually catapulted out of the saddle and landed on his feet plunging down the slide to keep out of the way of the horse.

Presence of mind a remarkable agility for a man 32 years of age and a load of luck were all that could account for his later climbing to the top and remarking to Kramer and Skoronski, "Now, I know what you Packers feel like when Sam Huff has been working you over."

For while he was battered from the rocks, there were no bones broken. What's more, the horse, which was wedged in a downed pine tree, the only thing that kept him from tumbling perhaps another 2,000 feet to the river below, Earl Furlow's winners. Greg wasn't seriously injured although Steinhorst relieved McIntyre in the fifth inning. Together, the two blood was gushing from his nose, limited Pond's to four hits but walked seven.

Later Frost admitted, "I didn't think. But I knew what was back of me. Better than 1,000 pounds of horse. If he hit me I was a goner. So I tried to run and take my chances with the rocks."

Worst Condition

We had several other near accidents during the hunt as we pressed hard for bear over trails that Frost later commented were in the worst condition he had ever seen them. Forest Service maintenance crews had not yet a had slide, loose shale coming gotten out to repair the ravages of winter on trails, some of obliterated the trail. Near the end of the hunt, we lost one of our pack horses. Kramer had some urgent business with his off hind leg. He broke his back drove up a couple of horses neck in the first roll."

Slippery Rock

Whitey, who was leading the way, stopped to rest the horses, who were laboring a bit during the steep climb. This put Frost and myself in a rather bad place to stand, a narrow corner of slippery rock and we hollered for those ahead to move up. I moved over the treacherous place and then heard hooves scrambling behind me.

Just what happened is hard to describe. I saw Frost go down the rock slide, his horse tumbling behind him and narrowly missing him. To say they went off a sheer cliff would be an exaggeration—

but not too great a one. Frost actually catapulted out of the saddle and landed on his feet plunging down the slide to keep out of the way of the horse.

Presence of mind a remarkable agility for a man 32 years of age and a load of luck were all that could account for his later climbing to the top and remarking to Kramer and Skoronski, "Now, I know what you Packers feel like when Sam Huff has been working you over."

Gibson, 5-3, checked the Pirates on six hits and drove in the run that snapped a 1-1 tie with a single in the sixth inning following Julian Javier's double. Bill White had given the Cards a 1-0 lead in the first with his 10th homer off Don Schwall. 3-4, but the Pirates tied it in their half on walks to Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski and Jerry Lynch's double. Gibson stopped them the rest of the way.

The Cubs tied the Colts 2-2 in the ninth on Dick Bertelli's triple and Don Landrum's single. Then, in the 10th, winning reliever Hal Woodeshick got the Colts started with a single. Chicago reliever Lindy McDaniel committed an error on Ernie Fazio's bunt and Brock Davis was intentionally walked. Aspromonte followed with his grand slam. McDaniel now is 4-2. Woodeshick 6-2.

Vada Pinson collected a homer, double and single, leading a 12-to third after a long fly ball and scored on Campbell's first of two wild pitches. Two more runs crossed the plate in the second when Cobb doubled and Bob Wardle crashed a homer over the right field barrier.

A single by Wilson in the fifth was the only other hit off Campbell for the Commodores.

The Foxes came back with a pair of runs in the third when Lewandowski doubled and Embrey slammed a 380-foot homer over the right-centerfield fence.

The Foxes threatened in the seventh when Ted Richardson opened the frame with a double but a pair of strikeouts and a fly ball ended the game.

Jim Parsons was the winner.

Columnist Hal Boyle Has Passion for Shirts

His Collection of 100 Great Attention
Getter, He Says; No Talent Necessary

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—There used to be a time when it took hard work to become notorious in America.

You had to struggle to win attention. You had to do unusual things—such as sit on a flagpole, rob a bank or marry the boss's daughter.

Today, however, it takes no special talent to stand out in the crowd.

My wife, for example, knows a husband who becomes the center of attention at cocktail parties simply because he happens to own 100 shirts.

Casual Mention

I happen to be that husband. People usually don't notice me at a party any more than they do any other fat man with tired feet. They don't, that is, until somebody happens to mention that I own 100 shirts.

Then the crowd begins to gather around me. They demand to know why I have 100 shirts—as if this were in itself an un-American act. "Well, some men set out to own 50 acres of downtown Tulsa," I explain lamely. "Others hoard balls of string, collect flapjacks or cover the inside of their closets with early photos of Elizabeth Taylor. I just happen to be nutty over shirts."

Then they want to know how I happened to get that way. I explain truthfully that in Belgium during World War II, I got tired of wearing the same shirt for two weeks. I swore then that if I survived until the peace, I'd built up a reservoir of at least 100 shirts—so I'd never again have to wear one with a dirty collar.

Women Resentful

This explanation doesn't win the sympathy one might expect. "My husband went through the entire war and won three battle stars and a purple heart—and he doesn't have 100 shirts," a wife will say accusingly.

For some reason it is the wives who seem to resent my 100 shirts most. And what seems to make them the angriest isn't so much the wasteful expenditure family funds but that a mere man would dare to clutter up storage space with 100 shirts of his own.

Husbands, on the other hand, seem in many cases to hold a kind of wistful admiration for my bold victory. They ask how I got away with it.

Not Easy

Well, I can tell you, it wasn't easy. After the first 50, I had to smuggle the rest in one or two at a time—to keep my wife from finding out how many I had and gic emotion of a hopeless situation. Maureen Stapleton plays a dying policewoman. Her condition leads her to a suicide attempt, but she is saved by Paul Burke. Horace McMahon and Harry Bel-laver.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — The Eleventh Hour's repeat has Wendell Corey treating a mentally retarded boy whose fascination with bottles leads some neighbors to think he's trying to steal a baby—he only wants the infant's bottle. This is a good but depressing study of the mentally retarded.

TV Commercial Takes to Drama

30-Second Playlet
Called Slice-of-Life Becoming Popular

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most fascinating developments of television is the minute—or even 30-second—drama.

They've been around for years, but these wildly abbreviated little dramas are becoming more popular than ever in the commercial areas these days.

There's the worried bride whose husband is unhappy about her cooking—until her mother-in-law tips her off about the right cooking oil.

There's the cigarette girl who gets her man—or at least an engagement ring — by selling the lonely night club patron the right brand of cigars.

Neglected Wife

There's the neglected wife whose husband never takes her dancing, or brings her flowers, until she dyes away those dreadful gray hairs. Then, wow! — it's nothing but the supper clubs and the hossa nova.

These speedy little dramas—complete with conflict and happy endings—are commercials of the Madison Avenue genus called "slice-of-life." Other categories include "demonstration" — which simply show how the product works — and "testimonial," in which somebody stands up and informs us how his headache was cured, his health improved or how white was her wash.

Figure Streamlined

Comedian Buddy Hackett Wins Bout With Poundage

BY HOLLY THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Last No- vember comedian Buddy Hackett was playing before a night club audience in Philadelphia when he felt a constriction in his chest. "I was all tied up," he recalls. "The first thing I thought was I was getting scared of audiences. I know of comics who had lost 200 pounds. I was a waddling 227 pounds then. Today he is a streamlined 185.

Buddy dropped into town because he thought it was time to get back to his buddies from "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

How did he manage the transformation? "I had three weeks off after Philadelphia, so I checked into Duke University Hospital, where I had been before," he said. "Be- lieve me, I was the thinnest pa- tient there, one guy had lost 250 pounds. Me, I lost 27 pounds in the three weeks. When I broke 200, I left to do a date in Florida. I gained back seven pounds, then I went back to Duke for a week or to the city."

Another part of the program will encourage creation of em- ployment facilities in the Ap-alachian South to make good use of natural and personal resources.

"Any diet will work for any- body if they will stick with it," he said. "Getting a reason to do so was my son. When he got to be 13, I figured I wanted to play catch beer," he said. "Also, I was with him without being unable to working in the Catskills and eat- ing regular."

At one point he ballooned to 250 Americans, weight has long been pounds. This helped his act, but at 17 he it wasn't funny to live with.

Body Cells Constantly Are Being Renewed

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Is the body renewed from time to time, or just sustained? Are the organs and flesh the same at age 40 or 50 as at 20 or 30?—K. A.

Parts of the body are constantly being replaced, cell by cell. New cells—but the pattern is the same. Let's compare the body to a brick house. From time to time a brick crumbles and a new one is inserted to replace it. It's the same house, but not all the same bricks.

In the body this replacement of "bricks" progresses at the level of cells small but complex units which make up living tissue. The cells consist in large measure of protein, and proteins have often been called "the building blocks of the body." As cells wear out, new ones are "born." How do they turn out to be the same kind of cells? This is governed by long spiral molecules of nucleic acid, in the nucleus of a cell. For brevity, it is called DNA. You might compare it to the type with which the body to a brick house. From time to time a brick crumbles and a new one is inserted to replace it. It's the same house, but not all the same bricks.

pattern to make specific kinds of proteins out of the carbon, lives. oxygen, hydrogen and other materials which compose the body. Now let's go back to our brick house analogy. Suppose we build a new porch on the house. Then, as bricks crumble, we replace them in the new design we have added to the house. It is the same with the body. If we cut a finger, and it leaves a scar, the protein molecules keep replacing the old ones, but they follow the new pattern or design—scar and all. We don't replace complete organs in the body. We keep replacing them a cell at a time, faithfully reproducing the pattern which has developed. To a tiny degree you have done some replacing while reading this article. In the course of a normal life it is estimated we completely replace our bone structure two or three times. One of the reasons for eating a balanced diet is to provide enough of the protein chemicals to continue the process of building some changes in the bones of

Railroad Wants To Sell Land

CNW Property Offer To Appleton Doesn't Interest Council

The Chicago and North Western Railway is anxious to sell some of its property to the City of Appleton. The common council has received a letter from Joseph J. Engel, local real estate salesman representing the railroad, inquiring if the city was interested. Mayor Clarence Mitchell said the city had no intention of entering into property purchase negotiations with the North Western "until we get the Washington-Franklin Street crossing matter settled." The city has pending before the Wisconsin Public Service Commission a petition requesting that grade crossings be established for the proposed extension of the two streets. Engel wrote city officials that he received a letter from Robert Walker of the North Western inquiring or the status of the Appleton situation. "Inasmuch as I have not received an answer to my January letter, am I to assume that the City of Appleton is no longer interested in the purchase of this property?" Engel inquired. In a letter to the city in January, Engel offered the areas between Appleton and Superior Streets, and Oneida and Appleton. No Plans "As a citizen, I feel that the city should own these properties while it has the opportunity of purchasing them," Engel said. City officials have indicated they have no intentions of taking any action on the railroad's offer to sell at this time. A year ago the railroad barricaded a portion of North Street during a squabble with the city. A subsequent legal opinion obtained by the common council indicated the North Western owned the land but the public had legal use of it as a street.

Loss of Gold Grim Problem for America

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As a youngster in the early 1930s, I vividly recall spending hours sitting on a bench at the tip of Manhattan Island and watching the world's great ships pull out of New York harbor laden with gold drained by our foreign creditors from the U. S. gold reserve. I recall spending more hours standing near the Federal Reserve Bank of New York watching men form long lines as they waited to exchange dollars into gold for immediate shipment abroad. I recall the panic which finally forced us to devalue the gold value of our dollar by raising the price of gold behind the dollar from Manhattan to another set of cages in the New York Federal Reserve Bank, also in downtown Manhattan. And thus, the contrast between the great gold outflow of the early 1930s and the great outflow of the early 1960s is particularly dramatic to me. Since the start of 1962, $1.1 billion of gold has flowed out of the U. S. Our reserve is now below $15.8 billion, lowest since 1939. With our foreign creditors still building up immense claims against our dollar which they can transfer into gold at any time, we're certain to lose considerably more of our hoard. How is this gold flowing out of the U. S. now? It is flowing out via armored trucks which move the gold bars into gold in order to bolster her precious metal reserve.

A French official calls a New York Reserve official and notifies him that France plans to exchange $100 million for gold at the U. S. standard price of $35 a troy ounce. The New York Reserve official calls a counterpart at the U. S. Assay Office and tells him of the $100 million demand for gold. On the agreed-upon day, armored trucks draw up at the Assay Office on Old Slip at the East River, load the gold bars, drive them five blocks to the Federal Reserve at 33 Liberty Street. Guards take the gold bars down to the subterranean vault. I described yesterday, trundle them, 60 to 100 at a time, through the massive 90-ton steel vault door. S. Assay Office. Or if France threat this poses to our gold reserve and dollar would just be shifted from sensitive it weighs to the nearest one one-hundredth of a troy ounce. Then the custodians — who wear heavy aluminum shoe guards so their toes won't be crushed if one of the 27-pound bars is dropped — move the bars into a gray cage whose secret number belongs to France. The cage is locked and sealed. The gold bars — each worth $13,434.79 — have been moved on five blocks and remain in downtown Manhattan. But the United States has $100 million less of gold in reserve while France has $100 million more of gold in reserve. The gold has "flowed out."

Kimberly May Reorganize Its Water Authority

KIMBERLY — The board of public works met with Harry Van Himbergen, chairman of the water commission to discuss possible reorganization of the commission. Pointing to the increase in technical reports required from France's numbered cage to Italy's numbered cage — which could be a matter of a few feet. It may seem a game of musical chairs, but it is deadly serious. Nations rise and fall on the total of gold they own and the world's confidence in the stability of their currencies. The grimmest financial problem facing the U. S. today is the persistent deficit in our balance of payments and the relentless threat this poses to our gold reserve and dollar. (All Rights Reserved) both water and sewage departments by the state, Van Himbergen indicated someone was needed to provide the commission with technical background. He suggested a person with a chemical engineering background as an asset on the commission especially as the village continues to grow. Professional service could be secured to assist with making chemical tests required by the state or a firm could be retained on a fee basis, stated Van Himbergen, but he felt these two ideas too costly.

Lodge to Present Flag Day Program

The Appleton Elks Lodge will present a Flag Day program in the club dining room at 9 p.m. Saturday. The public has been invited to attend the ceremonies. Robert Gmeiner, exalted ruler, will deliver a commentary on the holiday. Edward C. Schroeder will give a history of the flag. The Elks Ladies Chorus will sing "America the Beautiful" and Mrs. Louise Otis will sing "This is My Country." The usual Saturday night orchestra and music will follow the program. The mission chairman agreed a full-time man was not feasible for a community this size but seemed up to insure the village of a unit, which could satisfactorily carry out all duties of such a group. Board members and the qualified personnel.

Nine Fox Cities Musicians Among Workshop Delegates

Nine Fox Cities church musicians were among the participants in the first sessions of a three-day Church Music Workshop which began Tuesday at the Lawrence College Music-Drama Center.

The music events are being sponsored by Lawrence Conservatory of Music in cooperation with the Wisconsin Conference of the United Church of Christ. The church group is holding its first annual meeting on the campus during the same period.

Appleton musicians at the workshop were Mrs. Frank Dauner, 310 E. Harris St.; Mrs. Arnold Evans, 512 E. Grant St.; Mrs. Elmer Havens, 1209 W. Oklahoma St.; Mrs. Marilyn Marshall, 1932 W. Church musicians from Neenah were Miss Lillian Roth, 641 Cleveland St., and Mrs. Kenneth Mumme, 949 Hunt Ave. Three Dale residents also attended. They were Mrs. Velda Wallenfang, Mrs. Lambert Kramer and Mrs. Robert Pike. The area choirmasters and organists joined with 25 others from Wisconsin and two from Minnesota in afternoon and evening sessions during the workshop's first day.

They heard LaVahn Maesch, director of the Lawrence Conservatory, discuss "Church Music Objectives" and "Rehearsal Techniques and Problems" in an afternoon meeting. His talks were followed by a demonstration discussion led by Daniel P. Smith, Lawrence lecturer in music. Smith dealt with "Service Problems for the Organist" and "Hymn Playing, Accompanying and Registration."

Music Reading Session At an evening meeting, Russell G. Wichmann, chairman of the Department of music, Chatham College, Pittsburgh, conducted a music reading session centered on new choral materials.

The day's activities closed with a brief social hour in the Music-St. Mary's Center lounge.

Wednesday's music workshop events will be climaxed by a publisher, 325 N. Douglas St., and his organ recital by Smith at the Mrs. William Spetch, 2212 N. Outagamie St. First Presbyterian Church, Neenah, at 8:30 p.m. Smith is choir-master-organist of the church.

Sheriff Frazier said the young men got into a dispute in the Casino dance hall about 6:30 p.m. Sunday. They were ordered out of the building and resumed the fight in the Casino parking lot. County Policeman John Bonnell, the sheriff and two deputies arrived at the scene and told the young men if they would leave the Casino property, no charges would be pressed.

Radios for Help While the young men were in the Casino, Sheriff Frazier went to his car and radioed for assistance when it looked like there might be further trouble. Answering the call were three Waupaca city policemen, Don Paul Grunwald, along with several Waupaca auxiliary police.

Tornado Hits Area In Kansas

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fairly cool and dry air covered much of the eastern half of the nation today, breaking a spell of unseasonably warm weather in many northern areas.

Hot and humid weather continued in much of the Deep South and a warming trend was reported in most of the western half of the country.

A tornado damaged several hours and other buildings Tuesday night in Athol, a village in north central Kansas. A series of thunderstorms spread from Salina to the north.

Christianity Marked by Lean Years, Group Told

Protestantism Still Healthy, Speaker Tells Church of Christ Conference

"There is the recognition, on its part, its slowness of movement, every hand, that right in the midst of its lack of imagination, its timidity of the fastest, richest, slickest in the face of controversial culture civilization has ever known the Christian Church has fallen on spiritually lean years," declared a leading minister of the United Church of Christ in Appleton Tuesday.

Dr. Powell

Speaking at the first annual meeting of the Wisconsin Conference of the United Church of Christ in session Tuesday through Thursday at Lawrence College, the Rev. Dr. Oliver Powell, Oak Park, Ill., minister of the First Congregational Church, declared that "a lot of its inner glow has faded, something needs rekindling."

"I am afraid," warned Dr. Powell, "that in the life of our churches mass and motion are often more in evidence than force and energy."

Many sensitive laymen, according to Dr. Powell, "feel as I do—a real fear that the church's in-the Church really becomes serious, it involves us in this very business of rediscovering the spiritual force and energy that's required if it is to be true to its Lord and its mission."

Proclaim Gospel

"First of all, a church that is being renewed is one that sticks everlastingly to the business of proclaiming the truth of the Christian Gospel. This truth can be proclaimed in a variety of ways," he suggested. "There is a truth to be proclaimed by preaching, by teaching, by counselling, by every-day witnessing in a hundred different ways."

"Second, a true church which lives by the primitive force and energy which brought the Christian movement into being," Dr. Powell stressed, "is one which, faithfully, fittingly and with all the skill at its command keeps celebrating in worship God's mighty deed on behalf of us all. It is not primarily an occasion for recharging depleted spiritual batteries; the church is not a spiritual service station."

"In the third place, a church that is true and dynamic, that is stirring up its original inner fire, is one that stays in close touch with people, especially with their hungers and their hurts, their poverty of spirit, their weakness and cowardice, their brokenness," he said.

"Finally, a church that's true," Dr. Powell emphasized, "that belongs to the church, that belongs to the church, is a church which keeps its doors and windows wide open to the blowing of the wind of the Holy Spirit."

President Installed

During the evening worship service at which Dr. Powell spoke, the Rev. Dr. Clarence F. McCall, Madison, was formally installed as the first president of the Wisconsin Conference. A reception for Dr. and Mrs. McCall followed the service.

"The United Church of Christ has just published a new curriculum for Christian learning," Dr. Powell told the delegates this afternoon. "Looking back a few years from purpose to realize, a new course to be run.

"There are three main ingredients of Christian Education," he said. "We will never understand a new curriculum, or an old one, until we nail them down."

"First, there are people, individuals taken one by one—boys and girls, young people, men and women," Dr. Powell pointed out. Second, "there is the acceptance of what God has done for these individuals." Third, "there is the business of what these individuals do about it all in and through the Church."

"As I see our educational responsibility for the individual," said Dr. Powell, "whatever the Christian faith commits us to do, it commits us to start here—to take him seriously, accept him, show our concern for him, respect him as a sovereign individual, help him to face and to realize the potential that's inside him."

"Christian education is getting ready to act out in the community, in all our social contacts, the ideas, the convictions, the principles which we have learned constitute the Christian way of life," continued Dr. Powell. "The key concept we are dealing with in Christian education, as in every other phase of Christianity, is mission. We are the bearers to the world of some unbelievably good news. We are to tell it; we are here to act it out."

The closing session of the United Church of Christ conference will be Thursday at Lawrence.

Mayor Paid Visit by Young VIP's

Mayor Clarence Mitchell had a visit Tuesday from two VIP's from the Scootermobile Club.

Their mission was to obtain permission to enter three of their homemade scootermobiles in Saturday's big Flag Day parade.

Mark Vlossak, 10, 412 N. Durkee St., and Susan Omernick, 9, 416 N. Durkee St., told "his honor" the 11 members of the club recently completed their scootermobile-building projects. "We are painting them red, white and blue and plan to have flags for decorations," the youngsters informed Mitchell.

They sought aid from the mayor in getting assigned a place in the parade. Parade assignments were decided earlier in the week for the more than 100 units that will participate.

"It's going to be a long parade," Mayor Mitchell told Mark and Susan. "You might get tired peddling your scooters."

The youngsters indicated they were more than willing to give it a try.

And, the mayor said he would contact the parade marshal to see if he could arrange a spot for the scootermobiles.

Large Assets State Credit Unions Become Big Resource

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — With slightly more than a quarter of a billion dollars in assets, the 749 credit unions in the state are becoming an increasingly important part of the credit resources of Wisconsin.

William E. Nuesse, commissioner of banks, in his annual report to the governor and the legislature said the credit unions are expanding their assets at a rate of about 10 per cent a year, and that their total membership has grown to more than 400,000, or about one out of ten in the general population.

There now are 56 credit unions with total assets of more than a million dollars each, he said, but more than a third of all of the chartered unions have assets of less than $50,000.

Average individual share balances also continue to increase. The average at the end of last year was $563. All dividends paid or credited last year amounted to nearly eight millions of dollars.

Recommend Giving Law Doctorates

Suggestion Made To UW, Marquette
By Legal Committee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A committee on legal education and bar admissions has proposed that the law schools at the University of Wisconsin at Madison and Marquette University at Milwaukee award doctor's degrees to their graduates in the future.

Both schools now award bachelor's degrees upon completion of law studies, which in many individual instances amounts to a second degree since the typical student today has a Bachelor's degree before he enrolls in the professional law school.

The committee, headed by William E. Crane, Oshkosh, said nine other Midwestern law schools now award the doctor's degree. The group proposed that the plan be urged upon the faculties of the Wisconsin law schools. The de-

The Crane committee meanwhile echoed the concern of other spokesmen of the state bar in late years that the bar is not getting its share of students of ability and aptitude among those who are enrolling in higher educational institutions for professional studies.

The committee told the parent organization that "some means must be found to render financial assistance for able students to enable the law to attract its fair share of top students."

The competition from other fields is strong, the committee warned.

Steel Settlement To Include New Vacation Setup

NEW YORK (AP)—The Iron Age said today a steel industry wage settlement now in the making will include an extended vacation plan proportionate to one in the can industry.

Under a 1962 pact with the United Steelworkers Union, can manufacturers granted 13 weeks rules designed for exploration and vacation every five years to employees with 15 years seniority.

The metalworking weekly said steel industry bargainers, working through a joint management-union human relations research committee, have been close to agreement for possibly six weeks.

"The human relations approach is being blamed in varying degrees—and by both sides—for inability to come to an agreement earlier," the magazine said.

"According to sources within the bargaining groups, when talks reached the negotiation stage they continued to be conducted under study, not final agreement," the magazine said.

"Because of this machinery, there had been no attempt to fill vacation plan or any other section in the line print of the extended plan."

County Board Reform Fails

It is easier to understand why the legislature should be cool toward the idea of reapportioning legislative districts than to comprehend its nearly complete indifference to the idea of equalizing county board representation. When the legislature adjusts legislative district boundaries, it is tampering with the political convenience and welfare of its own members, sometimes to their detriment as officeholders. A critic might imagine that such personal considerations would not apply on the issue of county board districting reform. But the other day the members of the Assembly, in a smashing margin of more than two to one, refused to consider the relatively modest proposal for the reorganization of the county boards in eight of the larger counties of the state.

The proposal, offered by Mr. Froelich of Outagamie county and Mr. Martin of Winnebago county, was based squarely on the "one man, one vote" theme that has dominated the discussions of the chambers of legislative and congressional redistricting. Yet the theme might have been uttered in a Hindi dialect, for all of the response it brought in legislative halls.

There is a lesson here for those who believe that the issue of fair representation applies to the county government, as well as to the state and national governments. There needs to be a campaign to arouse public awareness of the unfair representation arrangements on our county boards.

Until there is proof of public demand for reform, the legislature is likely to continue the inertia that has been shown thus far. Mr. Jahnke, of Green Lake county, who led the opposition to the bill, challenged the backers of the reform, in effect, to prove that there is a demand for change. Thus far, we must concede, the proof is somewhat less than overwhelming.

There will be an opportunity for cultivating public interest in the interim committee work which, we hope, the legislature will authorize to keep the county reorganization issue alive. There is now a proposal for an interim committee of citizens, legislators and local government representatives that would be explicitly instructed to consider the issue of county government modernization in the growing urban counties, and the question of equality of representation. The committee would report a plan to the 1965 legislature. By that time those persons who regard "one man, one vote" as an objective as important in the courthouse as in the statehouse must be prepared to make their convictions known to their representatives in the state capitol.

A Confusion of Tongues

Prime Minister Nehru doesn't only have to worry about the Red Chinese on his nation's borders and the Pakistanis in the Kashmir. Indians are making a big commotion about which language should be recognized in official circles.

When India gained its independence, English was officially recognized for a period of 15 years. Now there is a bill before the Indian Parliament to extend this state of affairs for another 10 years. And the backers of Hindi are violently opposed.

Several thousand persons marched on Parliament and when they were repulsed by force they squatted down outside the buildings. Meanwhile, inside, the debate was raging. Three members were suspended and two were forcibly removed from the chambers. Another group was censured because it walked out when the President was addressing the Assembly in English. One member slid down under his bench when the marshals approached and it took six of them to drag him out and carry him off on their shoulders. The President meanwhile, continues to give his speeches in English but not only because it is the official language. He doesn't speak or understand Hindi.

When Ireland became independent there was quite a brouhaha over language, and Gaelic is still required to be taught in Irish schools. Its preservation may have cultural importance and it is certainly a quaint tongue, but the Irish use English in most cases in any event. India's problem is far greater. About 50 per cent of the people do speak and understand Hindi, but there are a dozen other major languages in the nation and probably a hundred local dialects and village tongues. English is the second language of the educated.

The idea that a national language will somehow emphasize and increase a country's independence is not at all valid. The United States is a living example that retaining the mother tongue does not impair independence. There may be doubts that we do still speak the same language as the British, but the variations have been acquired by accident and not by design.

The Pause for Reflection

The legislature's decision to recess for 10 days, to permit its Republican leaders to get down to serious work on a compromise with Gov. Reynolds on tax and finance policy, was a wise one. There remains comparatively little on the regular legislative calendars that has a serious chance of enactment, in view of the quarrel with the executive department on the tax and spending issue.

While there is not yet a solid indication that the differences between the Republicans and the Democrats can be resolved, the Republicans have shown a desire to cut away some of the political underbrush that might have stood in the way of a settlement. Gov. Reynolds has repeatedly indicated a suspicion that the Republicans are using the conflict on taxation as a kind of excuse to undermine what he regards as a minimum level of spending for state services. Now the Republican-controlled finance committee has pledged to work out a substitute budget bill representing the Republican view on tolerable spending limits, as a means of refuting that fear of the governor.

Presumably that Republican budget document will be ready for publication when the legislature returns next week, and presumably also, it will be a somewhat more conservative total than the governor has asked.

Yet the chances are that it will be sufficiently beyond the levels of existing expenditures as to require a hefty increase in taxation.

Will the governor then show a disposition to yield on tax policy, for an honorable compromise? We cannot yet know. It is unfortunate, however, that he has repeated his objections to a sales tax so often and in such intransigent terms that it will be difficult for him to make some concessions, however strong the evidence of need may be.

The governor has hinted that he will prefer "excise" taxes to "sales taxes," if the Republicans are disposed to accept some increases in income taxes as their contribution to the settlement. This will seem, to many persons, an exercise in semantics. The real test of the legitimacy of the compromise, when it comes, will be in the division of the potential revenues in the new tax program, between sales taxes and income taxes. It should be an approximately equal division, if it is truly a compromise reflecting the divided control of the state government and the evidently close division of voter opinion as certified by the elections last November.

Looking Backward

'Crescent Labors Under Delusion'

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 18, 1863.

The Crescent labors under a ridiculous delusion. Its excessive anxiety to become notorious for its treacherous and abusive personality and licentiousness of speech, and thereby provoke an "arbitrary arrest," and then extort money from country gentlemen by parading itself in the mudlin of a clap-trap martyrdom, will certainly prove abortive.

It will not be arrested and its Copperhead readers are not all fools. No Union war man detects hypocrisy of its base performances more clearly than do they.

It undertook bogus patriotism recently, but the heartless game was detected and exposed at once. Now it drives on under a full head of Copperhead steam and malignity, cowardice and falsehood, little dreaming how manifest is its public exhibition of its own nakedness — its little but overweening, impotent, transparent conceit.

By and by it will have finished eating its crop of thistles and, improved thereby, in stomach and tone, "roaring gently as a sucking dove," its countenance all expanded with native loveliness of look and voice — what an admirable illustration it will be of the "nigger policy of Washington despotism" in the "suppression of free speech."

Seriously, can its "numerous readers" be gulled any longer by its barefaced endeavors to act the hypocrite at their expense? Surely they are not all destitute of brains.

H-Bomb Inventory So Great U. S. Can Overkill All Targets 125 Times

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

H-bombs are not bombs — bigger — than — ever bombs. Each one is a catastrophe. Moreover, each is a catastrophe so colossal that "never enough" or "every shot didn't kill a man but continual shooting won the war" becomes a costly, irrational, hideous absurdity.

Yet, along with pork-barrel profits, bureaucratic habits, divided responsibility and its own momentum this accounts for the undisclosed billions-on-billions buying spree in our "Overkill" nuclear stockpiling program.

With even the horrible, horrible A-bomb obsolete, all our 1,300 Strategic Air Force bombers, our intercontinental ballistic missiles and the Polaris submarines are now equipped with H-bombs. These are 5,000 times more powerful than the primitive Hiroshima device, even though that was equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT and killed instantly 100,000 people.

Peace Insurance But The "Overkill" stockpile to support this is peace insurance. But how much peace insurance? Excluding barren oceans, which cover most of the earth, 80 per cent of the world contains less than 17 per cent of its population. More than half (57 per cent) of the earth's people live on less than five per cent of the earth's surface.

There are only about 2,000 cities in the entire world with 100,000 or more population, including those in the United States. Of these only 370 are in the Sino-Soviet bloc, 140 in the USSR and 230 in Red China. Their total population is roughly 600 million.

The top-secret document which records our ever-growing nuclear materials stockpile does not express this inventory by weight in pounds or tons or by megatons of explosive power. This top secret is, of course, and should be, sacrosanct. But its full revelation is not needed, and — please remember — that no secret is here revealed to our enemies. The Russians presumably know all this.

Our Nuclear Inventory Official testimonies to Congress, available from the Congressional Record, fairly simple calculations and the agreed estimates of physicist authorities show that our nuclear inventory now works out as equivalent to 22 billion tons of TNT.

Assuming we intended to blow up friends and foes alike, as well as ourselves in the United States, and allowing 30 per cent failure to deliver to target, reach for the aspirin and read what our ever-growing "Overkill" stockpile really means:

We have already manufactured and stored enough to deliver the equivalent of 2 1/2 million tons of TNT per 100,000 of population in all 2,000 cities through the entire world. Each 2 1/2 million tons is 125 times the Hiroshima quantity, and notice, please, that this amount is not for each city. It is per 100,000 inhabitants in each city everywhere.

People's Forum Students Say 'Thanks' For Support

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Recently a group of Lawrence students in conjunction with the Appleton Youth Council conducted a combination clothing, fund-raising drive. At this time on behalf of both the local students and the southern students movement I should like to express appreciation to the citizens of Appleton both collectively and individually for their concern and help in support of our drive. Though the groups and individuals contributing in various ways are too numerous to mention here, I should like to thank specifically Mr. Dietrich and the Olson Trucking Company for their kind assistance in loading and transporting the collected clothing to Chicago.

Among our correspondence in recent weeks with southern student action groups is included a letter from Miss Sandra Hayden, a Negro college student from Atlanta, Ga., who said that our support of the Greenwood project was quite essential to them, and that, in taking action on a civil rights issue, we were very much tied up with her and her fellow workers in a problem that faced us all as Americans. And I thought perhaps now we, in Appleton, were coming to realize more clearly our necessary involvement, perhaps coming to a point as James Baldwin puts it of knowing "you can't run", and of seeing that knowing "who you are has something to do with responsibility, too. The kind of responsibility that means that you haven't got time to weep, because you have too much to do."

Maryka Matthews Colman Hall, Lawrence College.

In short, having delivered a Hiroshima catastrophe everywhere on earth, the "Overkill" stockpile takes us back to do this all over again, not twice, but 125 times. It returns us to all Sino-Soviet cities 500 times or just to the Soviet 1,250 times.

Who Would be Left? How repeatedly do we propose to kill the same millions of people by burning them all over again? After performing this horror 125 times who would be left for our 125th knocking of the world into atomic rubble? Indeed, who among us would be left to do the knocking?

Macabre as this query is, there's no other way to point out to our public the colossal folly of the largely undisclosed "Overkill" buying spree.

The further inventory buildup, begun 19 years ago and still fed from the five gigantic production centers at Oak Ridge, Tenn., Hanford, Wash., Paducah, Ky., Portsmouth, Ohio, and Savannah River, S. C., is largely in the hands of men wisely determined to possess a supply that makes a "nuclear Pearl Harbor" attack on the United States clearly unworkable. But the added stockpiling is costing taxpayers more than $2 billion a year for nuclear explosives.

The failure to at least taper off the "Overkill" stockpiling is deeply buried behind bad reasons. The ancient principles of war — the principles of the objective, the offensive, economy of force, mobility, surprise, simplicity of plan — have not changed. But their application undergoes a vast transformation that must somehow free us completely from the past bombing conceptions. It has not.

Why this program got, and remains, completely off its rocker and why it is vital for the Congress and the public alike to blow the whistle on it and on the profits from it is the subject of the third and final article in this series.

Observations About Beer Drinking Laws And Highway Safety

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — After nearly four years of breast beating, the legislature is about to produce a round and noisy cipher as the conclusion in the long argument about juvenile beer drinking and highway safety.

Virtually everyone who has considered the matter for a moment, and who sees a relation in youth and beer, on the one hand, and the operation of motor vehicles on the public highways, on the other, has known that uniformity of regulation was the only practicable way of resolving the problem.

But the legislature has virtually ignored that reasoning, and has indicated that it will change the minimum age for beer consumption in taverns from 18 years to 19 years, without trying to achieve uniformity.

The best example of the problem of lack of uniformity is in southeastern Wisconsin, where Milwaukee does not allow teen age beer bars, but some of the rural jurisdictions within convenient automobile range do. The prospective change of the minimum age from 18 to 19 years will scarcely change the situation, except that it will presumably keep a few 18 year olds off the roads who might otherwise be traveling to bars at night.

Wyngaard

Ignored

It was evident early in the legislative year that the highway safety factor which ostensibly led to the interim committee investigation would be sidetracked.

Instead, the argument developed into a noisy fight involving civil liberties, public morality, and the economic welfare of the beer business.

There are legislators who quite earnestly believe it would be unwise to prohibit beer to young people. "They'll get it anyway," the argument goes, without ever quite facing up to the fact that the problem relates not to the capacity of the young boy to absorb beer without damage to his physical well-being, but to the boy filled with beer who drives a high-powered modern car on the open road and has the capacity to maim and to kill as a consequence.

There is also a latent prohibitionist spirit in Wisconsin which was injected into this argument, quite possible to the hurt of the campaign to achieve a more uniform public regulatory policy, if not a stricter one. The rain of petitions which descended upon the legislature earlier in the year were quite obviously organized by professional anti-liquor groups, and they were discounted for the most part because of their origin.

It is more delicate to appraise the economics of beer and its influence upon political decisions, but the financial factor is obviously relevant. Beer is a big manufacturing industry in the state. The beer distribution business also is sizeable and what is more, is superbly organized politically. The beer lobby has earned the notoriety it has had in legislative affairs. It is tireless, daring, and sophisticated.

THE IRONY

Yet the legislature of 1961 evidently thought seriously enough of the problem of highway safety represented in beer drinking and driving by juveniles to set up a major and costly study group that produced top line news dispatches over a period of many months.

The observer might wonder why, with the collapse of the effort to meet the problem through restrictions upon beer drinking, there is not an effort made to reach it through legislation on driving privileges of minors, or driving by minors at night, or penalties for juvenile violations.

The answer may very well be that the highway safety cause, in spite of its demonstrable importance in an economic sense, is not as diligently represented by professional lobbyists as is beer as an economic interest. Indeed, the comparative indifference of some commercial interests obviously concerned about highway accident losses to the daily doings of the legislature is one of the disturbing mysteries about state politics.

Here's Advice for Those Who Would be Writers

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A man I know was talking at lunch about a widely known columnist who specializes in humor and whimsy. "Why doesn't he ever write about serious and important things?" he asked me. "Certainly he's amusing, but there are more substantial matters in the world to write about."

I disagreed with his point of view. "Each person should do what he does best," I suggested. "And this columnist is excellent as a light entertainer. He fills a need, does no harm, and gives people pleasure. Why ask more of him?"

The man at lunch was a victim of what I call mock-seriousness. He wants everyone in print to focus on the important issues, and he ignores the obvious fact that some writers are not equipped to comment on matters beyond their immediate perceptions.

The columnist in question is modestly aware of his limitations. He has a keen eye for foibles, a deft way with language, and a puckish sense of humor. If he tried to do more, he would end up doing considerably less; like Sir Arthur Sullivan forsaking the blithe Savoyard operettas for ponderous "serious" music that is mostly unlistenable to today.

Harris

I would make precisely the opposite criticism: that there are too many commentators who are floundering beyond their depths, who lack the background, the intellectual stature, and the analytic powers to convey more than a superficial (and thus distorted) picture of what is happening and what it means.

There are many who deplore the fact that so witty and satirical a sports writer as Westbrook Pegler, for instance, decided to cover the larger arena of world events, for which nothing in his background had prepared him. Overwhelmed by the complexity of his subject, his humor turned corrosive and his perspective became warped.

Many people, it is true, do not live up to their potential; but just as many, it seems to me, are trying to live beyond theirs. The air is filled with voices pontificating on everything from birth control to bomb testing, and the voice of the returned disk-jockey is often louder than that of the man who has devoted a lifetime to studying such matters. Too much is said about everything, and not enough of it has any meaning.

The puckish columnist is to be commended for working within his severe, but admirable, limitations, and refusing to become an oracle. What he does is small, but craftsmanlike, and it is a real pleasure among so many pundits whose volume is equalled only by their vacuity.

Future of Council Up to Next Pontiff

Link With Other Religions Certain to be Affected

BY BAKER MARSH
Chicago Daily News Service

The legacy of a great and humble man was under debate this week.

The cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church were summoned to meet at the Vatican June 19 to choose a successor to Pope John XXIII, who died Monday.

The world would await their decision with more than usual interest, for upon their choice would depend whether the far-ranging policies of Pope John would be carried through, altered, postponed or put aside.

The choice would not be an easy one. For the late pontiff's plans affected not only the future of his own church but its relations with other great religions and even with the atheistic doctrine of Communism.

In the almost five years of his reign the Pope had initiated ideas and programs that stirred the imagination of the world and which cannot be ignored.

Council's Future at Stake

High among the Pope's dreams for the future was the work of the Ecumenical Council, which he convened in the Vatican last Oct. 11. Its aim was not to alter fundamental doctrine but to provide in the Pope's words "a general and more ardent renewal of the life of the Church."

Representatives of many faiths were invited to the council meetings as non-active but interested watchers and when it adjourned Dec. 8 there was a greater feeling of Christian unity.

Whether this work can be continued depends on the new Pope. He can leave the council suspended, recall it to resume its deliberations on Sept. 8 as scheduled, or order a postponement.

The council's work when it adjourned still was in the study stage. Many items on the agenda had not been discussed and no single item had been completed.

There was opposition within the church to a number of the proposals before the council, but there was a feeling in Rome that the work would go on.

Efforts for Peace

In his private diary Pope John had written:

"From Heaven, where I hope I am even certain—Divine mercy will raise me, I shall see the happy conclusion of the council."

Perhaps of greater importance in the late Pope's work was his effort to win the world to peace.

It was a peace that involved not only weapons of war but the weapons of bigotry and distrust.

Possible Successors

Already, before the princes of the church have gathered, more than 15 names have been suggested as possible successors to John. But it is purely a guessing game. Choice of John himself in 1938 was a surprise to most.

This is the time when some recall the "prophecies" of St. Malachi. These "prophecies," which have been proved to be fakes, were supposed to be the work of an Irish monk of the 12th century in which he described all the popes to come.

According to the "prophecies," John's successor will be the "flower of flowers." One difficulty is that 10 cardinals have flowers in their coats of arms.

Whatever the choice, the world will remember these simple, moving words of Pope John and put its hopes in them:

"Peace, peace, I wish this age should be my last prayer as Pope, as humble Pope John."

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association's research institute warned Monday that new life into our ailing colossus before more of us are struck with getting through "to the craftsmen" in our business and this is our greatest problem.

Harold F. Grumhaus, delivering the keynote address at the ANPA's 35th annual production management conference, said:

"It's an unfortunate fact that times it looks as though we're on opposite sides of the fence, determined to exterminate each other."

"But what we need to do," he said, "is look up our minds to cope with the problems of understanding all of our people to understand and appreciate our business."

"We cannot continue to neglect our relations with the men who make it possible for us to put our newspaper in the hands of our readers," he said. "We must eliminate indifference and lack of understanding."

Business Manager

Grumhaus, business manager of the Chicago Tribune, said evidence of the problem is in the recent newspaper strikes in New York, Cleveland and Minneapolis, which he said resulted in combined losses of $1 million per day.

"Let's get smart and infuse new life into our ailing colossus before more of us are struck with getting through "to the craftsmen" in our business and this is our greatest problem."

Grumhaus said the solution is by telling employees about plans and changes that will affect them or do we let them get a distorted scuttlebutt version of what is coming?

"Nothing makes a man more nervous than to hear about something which may affect his job, his future, his family."

"We must take him into our confidence whenever we can."

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Earl Smith should have trusted anti-freeze.

But instead Smith wrapped a ness' traditionally low profit margin is getting lower every day. "Why is this?" he asked. "One newspaper management has been too timid to face up to its own problems. Two, we have not been getting through to all of our people in a way which will make them understand that what is good for newspapers is good for them."

"Do we meet our responsibility by telling employees about plans and changes that will affect them or do we let them get a distorted scuttlebutt version of what is coming?"

"Nothing makes a man more nervous than to hear about something which may affect his job, his future, his family."

Someone pulled an alarm box at the downtown intersection, the one that signals to prepare for a major blaze.

The high-pressure pumping system was turned on and three fire trucks and a rescue squad arrived.

Damage was estimated at $25.

Kennedy Outlines Program for Civil Rights Legislation

'Frustration and Discord' Peril Safety, President Says

BY HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has warned the nation that discrimination against Negroes has lighted "fires of frustration and discord" that threaten lives and the public safety.

The President outlined a broad legislative program he will propose to Congress next week. He said it will be based on the proposition "that race has no place in American life or law."

Radio, TV Address
Kennedy appeared Tuesday evening on radio and television in a fireside civil rights lecture to Americans of both North and South only hours after Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace bowed to federal pressure and stepped aside to let two Negro students register at the previously all-white University of Alabama.

"I hope that every American, regardless of where he lives, will stop and examine his conscience about this and other related incidents," said Kennedy.

"When Americans are sent to Viet Nam or West Berlin, we do not ask for whites only," he said.

"It ought to be possible, therefore, for American students of any color to attend any public institution they select without having to be backed up by troops."

Moral Crisis for U.S.
Kennedy, declaring that America faces "a moral crisis as a country and as a people," said he will ask Congress to make a civil rights commitment "it has not fully made in this century."

The President said he will propose legislation that would:

1. Prohibit stores, hotels, restaurants and theaters from discriminating against Negroes.
2. Allow the federal government to take a more active part in court suits aimed at desegregating public schools.
3. Afford greater protection for Negroes' right to vote.

Acknowledging the new laws are not enough, Kennedy said, however, that in too many parts of the country wrongs are inflicted on Negroes because they have no remedies at law—and "unless

2 Whites Shot, 4 Persons Hurt In Race Rioting

Tense Situation Brings Violence In Maryland Town

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Two white men were shot and at least four other persons were injured when a race riot erupted in this small Eastern Shore community late Tuesday night.

A tense racial situation flared into violence when a crowd of about 100 whites followed an equal number of Negro demonstrators back into the Negro section.

The Negroes had just finished their second march on the town's courthouse and jail protesting the sentencing of a Negro boy and girl. The 15-year-olds, who had been arrested several times for participating in racial demonstrations, were adjudged to be delinquent Monday and sent to state training schools for an indeterminate period.

FBI Asked To Help Find Assassins

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Medgar Evers, one of the South's prominent Negro leaders, was mortally wounded in the driveway of his home early today.

Evers, 37, Mississippi field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, died about 50 minutes later in University Medical Center.

Evers had been directing a massive civil disobedience campaign against racial discrimination in the Mississippi capital.

Police launched a widespread search for his assassin.

"This is most unfortunate," said Jackson Chief of Detectives W. B. Pierce, who asked the FBI to assist in the investigation.

Police Efforts Futile
A handful of city police tried to keep the two groups separated, but the whites swarmed across the street toward the marchers just as they reached the Negro section.

The fight had just started when shots were fired. One shotgun blast struck the two white men. Another slammed through the window of a second-floor apartment occupied by a white woman.

Three fires, one a general alarm blaze, broke out after fire bombs were tossed into business establishments operated by whites in the Negro section. Police found homemade fire bombs fashioned from beer bottles filled with gasoline in two of these places.

Committee Rejects Tax Proposal Giving Break To Persons Over 65

The House Ways and Means Committee, drafting a tax cut and revision bill, has rejected President Kennedy's proposal that a $300 credit against income tax be substituted for the present extra personal exemption and retirement income credit for persons over 65.

The Treasury estimated that the proposal, liberalizing tax treatment substantially for aged taxpayers in the low and middle-income groups, would reduce government tax revenues $350 million annually.

Also rejected was a Kennedy proposal to allow business firms to deduct the cost of research equipment as a current expense.

New Jersey Union Leader Convicted In Extortion Case

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Anthony 'Tony Pro' Provenzano, powerful leader of the New Jersey Teamsters Union Joint Council, has been found guilty of extorting $17,100 from a New York trucking firm.

The verdict against the chunky, 46-year-old Provenzano was delivered Tuesday night by a U.S. District Court jury of six men and six women. They received the case Monday.

Provenzano faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Judge Robert Shaw said a sentencing date would be set after Provenzano, who is at liberty in $1,000 bail reports to his probation officer Thursday.

Provenzano, a close friend of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, also is an international vice president of the union.

Provenzano was accused of extorting $17,100 from Dorn Transportation, Inc., of Rensselaer, N.Y., from 1952-59 to insure labor peace at its Secaucus, N.J., terminal, where drivers of Local 560 were employed.

Chilly Temperatures Finally Leaving Valley

Fox Cities — Consider a little cloudiness and warmer temperatures through Thursday. Chance of light scattered showers and thundershowers by Thursday evening. Low tonight, 47. High Thursday, 72. Light northwesterly winds, becoming southeasterly Thursday.

2 Negro Students Enroll at Alabama U.; Troops Standby

BY REIMAN MORIN
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Segregation's wall around Alabama public schools cracked when two Negroes enrolled at a state university behind federalized National Guardsmen.

A stubborn Gov. George C. Wallace made his doorway stand against federal authority Tuesday.

He turned back federal officials and delayed registration of the two Negroes only briefly at the University of Alabama. Then he yielded to an Alabama-born general of the state's 17,000-man National Guard, federalized by presidential order.

Governor Yields
The breaching of the racial wall in Alabama, which had been the only state without token integration in public schools, provided a dramatic prelude to a demand by President Kennedy for obliteration of color lines in the nation.

The 43-year-old governor, grim and determined, stood off federal officials in the first meeting at the university. He read a proclamation to "denounce and forbid this illegal and unwarranted action by the central government."

The federal officials and the Negro students, Vivian Malone and James A. Hood, withdrew temporarily.

A short time later, Wallace was confronted by Brig. Gen. Henry V. Graham, 47, assistant commander of the 31st Infantry Division of the National Guard.

The tall, militarily erect Graham, gray-haired and sunburned, saluted. The governor, his chin thrust forward but his face now bleak, waited.

Raps Federalization
Graham said he had been commanded to ask Wallace to step aside.

Wallace, who had earlier been told by the President to give up his defiance, replied: "I wish to make a statement."

"But for the unwarranted federalization of the National Guard, I would be your commander in chief. In fact, I am your commander in chief."

"I know this is a bitter pill for you."

For the youthful governor it obviously was bitter defeat.

Wallace said again that Alabama's citizenry should refrain from violence, he denounced the federal government's "trend to military dictatorship" and then almost angrily unhooked a microphone from around his neck, let

Neenah Man Killed by Train

NEENAH — Harvey Christensen, 61, 235 Gruenwald Ave., Neenah, was fatally injured when he was struck by a southbound Soo Line freight train at 6:35 a.m. today on the tracks near Chapman Avenue.

According to the engineer, Leo Walt, Fond du Lac, Christensen walked out of bushes west of the main line track, crossed the tracks in front of the engine, started back over the tracks in front of the engine and was facing it when struck.

His body was discovered by Winnebago County sheriff's officers about 700 feet northwest of the South Lake Street crossing.

Dead at Scene
An nephew of Christensen told authorities his uncle was an older at the Lakeview plant of Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Christensen was pronounced dead at the scene by Winnebago County Coroner Arthur Miller.

Miller said Christensen apparently became confused after he crossed the tracks the first time and probably thought the train was on a different track.

The train reportedly was traveling about 25 to 30 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

The body was taken to the West-gor Funeral Home, and arrangements are pending. The widow was at a cottage at Lake Poygan.

2 Athletes Die In Auto Smashup

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two star athletes at Milwaukee's Rufus King High School were injured fatally late Tuesday night when an auto crashed into a tree in a suburban park.

Their deaths raised the Wisconsin traffic toll for the year to 317, compared with 351 at this time a year ago.

Ronald Sterling, 17, Milwaukee, was dead on arrival at Columbia hospital Tuesday night after the car in which he was riding went out of control and hit a tree in Estabrook Park in Shorewood.

Donald Raabe, 17, died at the hospital of internal injuries today. A third occupant of the car, Alan Crane, 19, was in fair condition today. All three were members of the Milwaukee Rufus King High School football and baseball teams.

No More Mercury Orbital Flights, Space Chief Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Space Chief James E. Webb announced today that there will be no additional project Mercury orbital flights.

Instead, Webb said, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will move ahead with the program for the two-man Gemini spacecraft, which will practice the space-docking maneuvers that will be required after Apollo flights to the moon.

Webb told the Senate Space Committee that the decision against another Mercury flight was reached this morning at a conference with Associate Director Robert Seamans Jr. and Deputy Administrator Hugh Dryden.

Project Mercury directors and the seven original Mercury astronauts had urged that one more Mercury flight be attempted, this one of about 100 hours.

But Webb said plans and preparations for another Mercury flight would slow development of the Gemini program, the first flight in which is now expected early in 1965.

Hong Kong to Import Water From Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—The Hong Kong government decided today to import water from Communist China to relieve the British colony's severe drought.

A government spokesman said a number of tankers were being chartered to bring water from the Pearl River, about 40 miles from Hong Kong.

A seven-month drought, the worst in Hong Kong's history, has cut the water ration to four hours every four days.

Capenni Resigns as Aide to Sen. Proxmire

MADISON (AP)—Frank Capenni, a University of Wisconsin graduate student whose employment by U.S. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., stirred a political controversy, resigned as an aide to the senator today.

In a letter to Proxmire, Capenni said his action was taken to eliminate a "situation" that "may be used in attempt to damage you politically."

Capenni made a copy of his letter of resignation available to newsmen.

"When I joined your staff while on leave from the university, I had expected to work with you in government for three or four years and then to return to academia," the letter said.

Capenni said he planned to return to teaching English this fall at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Excluding leaves he has been teaching at the school since 1955.

Polish Cardinal in Rome for Conclave

ROME (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland, arrived today for the conclave that will elect a new Pope.

Hundreds cheered the 61-year-old cardinal as his train pulled in. But he reminded them of the death of Pope John XXIII.

"Do not applaud. Remember that this is a time of grief for us," he said.

Macmillan Holds Emergency Talks
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan held an emergency Cabinet meeting today and reportedly persuaded his shaken ministers to back his handling of the Profumo vice scandal.

None of the ministers would speak publicly about the meeting and, in fact, none of them looked very happy about it.

But the usually well-informed British Press Association said it was evident that the meeting "was a harmonious one and that there may well be a unanimity of view."

Signs Point Toward Budget Settlement

Reynolds, GOP Now Deadlocked

MADISON (AP)—Any modern highway has signs to tell the traveler where he is and how far it is to where he is going. Careful observers of the legislative scene are aware of similar signs on the road to a compromise between Gov. John W. Reynolds and the Legislature on the question of budget and taxes, but they can't decide whether the signs point forward or backward. This week the Legislative Joint Finance Committee and Reynolds are supposed to be trying to agree on where they, and the state, are going. Since the dispute concerns everyone, the nature of some of the road signs should be revealed. The first sign of consequence is the figure $512.6 million, which represents the money that will have been spent in the two years ending Jan. 30.

Tax Revenue
By June 30, it was originally estimated, the state will have received $499.9 million in tax revenue. Obviously, the $22.7 million difference is a deficit. To make matters worse, it is now thought that revenue will be even less and the deficit nearer $29 million. The next sign to consider is Reynolds' proposal that the state spend $609.3 million in 1963-65. Simple subtraction shows this is $156.7 million more than was spent in the current biennium. Turning to the financing of Reynolds' proposed budget, it is estimated that the present tax structure will produce $510.2 million, which is $159.1 million short of paying for the budget and if the $29 million deficit is added, as it needs to be, is $188.1 million less than must be raised. It is the governor's position that, having determined the state needs to spend $609.3 million, it can afford to raise the taxes to pay for it.

Opposite Direction
Republican legislators approach the spend-tax problem from the opposite direction. They say the state can afford only an additional tax increase of about $142 million and after taking care of the current deficit there will be only some $114 million to apply to the 1963-65 budget. Add the revenue from current taxes and this new money gives total revenue of $624 million for 1963-65, by Republican figuring. Thus, if Republicans remain adamant, this means that they and the governor are about $45 million apart. An added factor here is Gov. Reynolds' statement that only $27 million of his budget represents new programs. All the rest of the increase is for continuing existing programs. If Reynolds is correct, Republicans will have to find ways of eliminating $18 million from existing programs in addition to eliminating the new programs to bring the budget within the limits they have set. Presumably, that is the task the Joint Finance Committee has set itself.

Republicans Pick State Chairman

MADISON (AP)—A new Republican state chairman will be selected today to succeed Claude Jasper, a Madison attorney who held the job for five years. The selection will be made by the party's state executive committee in a closed meeting in a downtown Madison hotel. Three candidates are bidding for the unsalaried post. They are Carl E. Steiger, 67, an Oshkosh banker and a member of the University of Wisconsin board of regents; Talbot Peterson, 41, an Appleton manufacturer, and Floyd Springer Jr., 40, a public relations man from Racine.

Vietnamese Gather For Monk's Rites

Buddhist Burned Himself to Death In Protest Over Religious Policy

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Milling crowds gathered in front of Buddhist pagodas today for memorial services for a monk who burned himself to death in protest against President Ngo Dinh Diem's religious policies. Combat police in battle dress, blockaded at least five pagodas, including the one where the monk's body lay. Monks said police granted permission for about 100 Buddhists at a time to enter the building to pay homage. One pagoda defied a government ban and flew a giant five-colored Buddhist flag until police ordered it down. There was no violence, however, who burned himself to death in protest against President Ngo Dinh Diem's religious policies. Some of the Buddhist anger also is directed at the United States because American weapons, furnished for the war against Communist guerrillas, have been turned on Buddhists accusing the government of religious persecution.

Diem Is Catholic
Diem, a Roman Catholic, told the aroused South Vietnamese, "people Tuesday night he was 'very sorry' about the torch suicide of a 73-year-old Buddhist monk in downtown Saigon. Faced with one of the gravest crises in his eight-year rule, the 62-year-old president promised resumption today of negotiations on Buddhist demands for more religious freedom and social reforms.

He blamed extremists for arousing public opinion against his government with false propaganda. "I solemnly declare that, behind Buddhism in this country, there is the constitution—which means I myself," he said. About 80 per cent of South Viet Nam's 15 million people are Buddhist, but the government is dominated by Diem's Catholic family. Buddhist leaders, committed by their religion to non-violent action, threatened to call on lay followers to join in demonstrations "with all the violent consequences that probably would follow."

Monk's Threat
One monk threatened to disembowel himself publicly if Buddhist demands were not met. Prayer services were scheduled at Buddhist pagodas throughout the country Sunday. It was feared these would produce more incidents. The U.S. Embassy, trying to steer a neutral course, instructed American families to stay indoors. "The Buddhists appealed for help from the International Red Cross, the United Nations and President Kennedy. The Buddhists demand equal status with the Catholic Church, permission to display their religious flags and indemnities for the dead and wounded in a clash May 8 that sparked the religious-political crisis. Demonstrations and clashes, with police and troops have occurred frequently in the weeks since.

Aren't Always Happy With Results

BY WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Taking a leaf from the American book, Communist nations have started conducting their own public opinion polls. Sometimes they don't like what they find out, the U.S. Information Agency reports. Communist pollsters have sampled public opinion in Poland, Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union, the USIA said in a report on its own research activities submitted to a House Appropriations subcommittee and made public today. Poll reports published in Communist newspapers usually are not complete enough to permit accurate judgments about the findings, the agency said, but they do "tell us something about what people are thinking behind the Iron Curtain, where USIA has an important audience." The agency cited a report on a 1961 poll of Yugoslav students, conducted by the Zagreb Union of Communists, which indicated that "a large percentage of students had serious doubts about the validity of Marxist ideology." "The poll reports also said that despite long indoctrination efforts, Yugoslav young people still are oriented largely toward private and personal pursuits in life," the USIA said. "The newspaper report of the poll indicated that authorities were not at all pleased with answers the students gave." The agency also told of these findings of its own studies: —Opinions of Castro-style com-

Figures Being Compiled on State Budget

MADISON (AP)—The state budget being prepared by Republican lawmakers has reached the Senate for the first time. The Senate Finance Committee is compiling figures supplied by subcommittee chairmen. Assemblyman Glen Pommeroy, a seven-nation study, showed. "Among the urban discontented in Latin America, however, Communist ideas find more fertile ground. The main reservoirs of support for land and property expropriation and Castroism were the poor and those middle-income persons who were both dissatisfied with conditions and interested in politics." —Student surveys in the Near and Far East, Africa and Latin America indicated that "a majority professed to dislike communism as a system, but in each country they always ranked socialism highest."

Foster Predicts U. S. Okay Test Ban Pact

BY STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Arms Control and Disarmament Director William Foster predicts a safe passage of the Senate for any nuclear test ban treaty signed by the Soviet Union and the West. He does not agree with those who predict that a treaty would provoke the most bruising battle in the Senate since the League of Nations proposal to join the League of Nations after World War I. He believes it would suffer the same dismal fate. "It would be tough," said in an interview, "but I could get a treaty through the Senate."

Foster, 66, director of Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, will not take part in U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear ban treaty negotiations in next month. From his office he will back up the effort of American negotiators. He would have a major role in selling any treaty to the Senate. Without the approval of a two-thirds majority, the treaty would be dead. The League of Nations proposal, most 50 years ago, would be ratified.

No Illusions
Despite his optimism, Foster said he had no illusions of the significance of a nuclear treaty. "The importance of it has been exaggerated," he said. "It has symbolic value, but it is not a test ban—when we sign it, then we can't negotiate part of the disarmament package." Foster took issue with William Proxmire, D-Wis., who feels that the U.S. is the "big, black obstacle" to a treaty. "Congress isn't the big obstacle to a treaty," Foster said with a smile. "The Russian is."

Farmington Board Okays Liquor Rule

Town Will Allow Sales Up to a Quart in Taverns

WAUPACA — The town board of Farmington Tuesday night unanimously adopted an ordinance which will allow the four liquor taverns in the township to sell up to one quart of liquor to a person rescinding an ordinance in effect since 1934.

LaVerne Nelson, town chairman, said the new ordinance will go into effect July 1 when liquor licenses are renewed. The new ordinance also raises the liquor license from $225 to $250.

The old ordinance prohibited the sale of bottled liquors by specifying liquor could only be sold "by the glass." The new ordinance allows taverns to sell up to one quart per person for consumption off the premises.

Nelson said the board adopted the new ordinance to help the established businesses in the township. "At the present time, those wanting to buy liquor must go into Waupaca or the Town of Waupaca," Nelson said.

Nelson said Mr. and Mrs. John Drayna were at the meeting. Drayna is commandant at the Grand Army Home for Veterans. Nelson quoted Drayna as "not objecting" to the new ordinance. Nelson said the Grand Army Home prohibits members from bringing beer or liquor on the grounds or into the buildings at the home.

Constable Opposed Others at the meeting were Town Constable and Mrs. John Bonnell, Hugh Strange, Tim Schroeder, Ben Johnson and Larry Hansen. Nelson said Bonnell was opposed to the new ordinance.

In another action, the town board voted to have the town chairman codify the town ordinances which date back to 1854. The Town of Farmington, which includes a portion of the Chain O'Lakes area, had a beer drinking age battle last year when the board raised the legal beer drinking age to 21. The ordinance was voided by a referendum which favored the 18-year-old beer drinking age limit.

The Town of Clayton, which includes the other portion of the Chain O'Lakes, is a dry township where no liquor or beer is sold. There have been a number of referendums on the question of allowing the sale of beer in the township but, as one of the older voters said, "the township gets drier with each referendum." Each year the referendum is defeated by a larger majority.

Waupaca Board Seeks Paved Loading Zone

WAUPACA—The board of education Tuesday night discussed prospects of installing a blacktop driveway from School Street to the main entrance of the high school for a bus loading zone.

George Hendrickson, superintendent of schools, who introduced the suggestion, said the present bus zone is not satisfactory.

Students have been boarding and leaving the buses on State Street at the side of the new gymnasium, which is classified as one of the busiest intersections in Waupaca during rush hours.

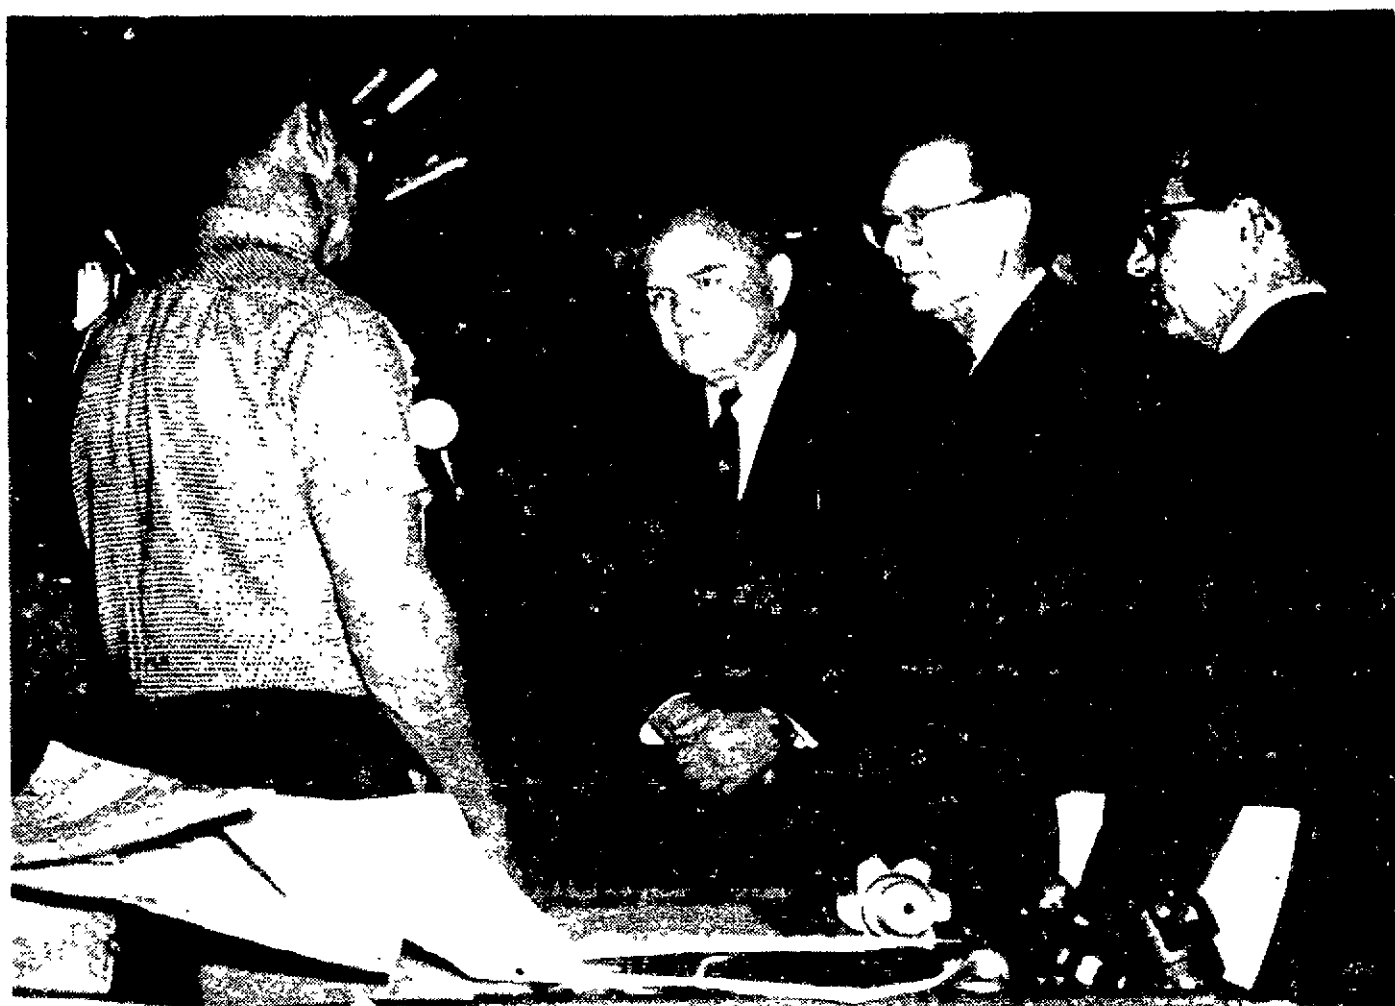

Hendrickson said Police Chief Fred Rasmussen and Ald. Vernon Johnson, chairman of the city council's board of public works, were in favor of the proposed bus loading zone.

Hendrickson said the problem aired at the last meeting of the city council seems to center on whose responsibility it is to regulate the traffic. He said seventh and eighth grade pupils are doing the school safety patrol work and wondered if the school district would be responsible if one of the safety patrolers were struck by a car.

"We are being unjustly criticized about not ordering high school students to leave the keys to their cars at schools," John Hansen, a board member said. Hansen maintained students could park their cars further away from schools or have duplicate keys if a ban were inaugurated to forbid students from driving cars during the noon lunch period.

Mrs. Ward Fonstad, board president, said the problem is a responsibility of the parents, who allow their children to drive cars to school.

Hendrickson said the administration is planning several new restrictions concerning students who drive to school. They will be introduced with the opening of school in the fall.

Clintonville Council Hears Ways To Receive Urban Renewal Funds

City Must Reverse Migration

CLINTONVILLE — Clintonville must develop a community development plan that is part of a county plan that is part of a national plan in order to reverse the trend of out-migration, the director of the State Department of Resources Development said here Tuesday.

Frank P. Zeidler, speaking to the Lions Club and a number of city officials, listed a number of steps that a community such as this one should follow in order to grow, rather than decline.

"The people of the area must take thought as to where they are going and how they can control the future. This means they must have data about the kind of work in the area, about the kinds of jobs available and about the future of the industries in the area."

Among Problems Among the problems they must solve is that of better transportation facilities into the community, he said, particularly highway and air facilities.

"They must engage in renewing their central business districts to take care of automobile traffic. They must become the seed-bed for small business."

"They must encourage in addition to Page 3, Col. 7

New London School Staffs Not Filled

Superintendent Says He's Having Difficulty Finding New Teachers

NEW LONDON — Supt. of Schools Lloyd Qualley presented to the board of education Tuesday night a list of teacher vacancies for the coming school year and explained the difficulty he is having in obtaining qualified teachers.

He also announced the resignations of two high school teachers. Mrs. Judy Morey, girls physical education, and Jack Frandy, mathematics. Mrs. Morey has accepted a teaching position at Jola - Scandinavia High School.

Frandy has enrolled at the University of Minnesota to take advantage of a scholarship and work toward his masters degree. The list of teacher vacancies includes two girls physical education teachers, one history-geography, one boys physical education, social studies and head basketball coach, one mathematics, two elementary, grades three and four, one kindergarten teacher for Readfield and an English, speech and drama teacher.

Qualley said he is having difficulty obtaining teachers in some of the categories because of late resignations. If he had known these teachers were going to resign in March or April when more were available, the problem of finding teachers would not now exist, he said.

Qualley also reported to the board the state aid picture has not changed. Schools are faced with state aid loss as reported to be up to 24 to 25 per cent.

The department of public instruction has recommended that schools figure aids on the same formula as used last year, Qualley said. This is at a base valuation of $39,000. The New London School will lose $89,000 for the 1963-64 school year if aids are based on the same formula as for the 1962-63 school year, he said.

An executive session was conducted at the end of the regular meeting to discuss hiring a head basketball coach. An experienced coach cannot be hired at the present salary schedule, Qualley said. The board also discussed office employees, one to replace a secretary that is leaving and an added secretary to work part time in the guidance department.

Slash Improvements Before going into executive session, board members slashed a summer improvement schedule. From a list of 11 items, only four were approved. Approved actions were replacing wooden basement doors at the high school with steel doors, replacing stairway treads at McKinley School and painting the exterior of the McKinley and Northport schools.

Board members said with the pending loss of state aids for the coming year, improvement projects should be kept at a minimum.

Cut from the list were new lighting in the home economics room and industrial arts room, replacing window blinds at the high school, building a fence along the Oshkosh Street side of the high school outdoor gym area, various blacktopping projects and landscaping at Readfield.

Two Methods Described To Officials

CLINTONVILLE — Sol Ackerman, coordinator of state planning, discussed with the common council Tuesday procedures that would enable the city to qualify for urban renewal funds.

Also at the informal meeting was Frank P. Zeidler, director of the Department of Resource Development, who also spoke to the Lions Club Tuesday.

Ackerman pointed out that there were two programs, the Chapter 701 program and urban renewal, a redevelopment program.

70 Programs The Chapter 701 program is a federal plan which pays for two-thirds of the comprehensive master plan for a city. The rest is paid by local funds. It can be done either by private consultants or the state's Department of Resource Development. Ackerman said. He reported there are about 70 Chapter 701 programs in Wisconsin, ranging in size from small towns to regional planning.

To prepare a comprehensive master plan, surveys and economic analyses are made, community facilities are checked to see if there is need for expansion. Surveys are done in conjunction with the highway and conservation commission, Ackerman said.

In the urban renewal program, a community pays one-fourth and the federal government three-fourths. In order to qualify, it is necessary to have "a workable

New London Board Continues Struggle For Kindergartens

Educators Will Consider Moving Two Rural Schools Into City

NEW LONDON — The board of good educational program Qualley education Tuesday night continued its struggle to retain kindergarten parents and teachers to a summer in the district for the next two kindergarten program.

Kindergarten for the north district also was discussed. The schools to the city was heard board decided that nothing would be done until the 1964-65 school year, when the new Sugar Bush building contractor Board members also named a committee to investigate the possibility of using church rooms at Assembly of God Church and Emanuel Lutheran School.

If the rooms are available in the city, the remaining problem with the program will be finding space in the southern part of the district for a kindergarten class and finding a teacher for the class.

Superintendent Lloyd Qualley was instructed to investigate the possibility of reopening Med in a School for kindergarten. If Medina or another one-room rural school is used for a kindergarten class, Qualley said he might have difficulty getting a teacher to instruct the class, because of teaching conditions in a one-room rural school.

Cost $3,000 Each In his report to the board, Schoenrock said, to move the Elm and Oak Schools to the city, it would cost an estimated $3,000 each. This included, moving, installing heating, lighting and reconditioning of the buildings.

If moved, he suggested they be located on the north side of Lincoln School, one on each side of the sidewalk leading to the north entrance.

The question of having kindergarten classes in the summer was again brought to the floor, but Supt. Qualley said he already had talked to Mrs. Mona Wells, elementary supervisor, who did not think it would be conducive to a

Impartial Courts, Dictatorships Don't Mix, Judge D. H. Seбора Says

CHILTON — "An impartial court and a dictatorship mix like oil and water," County Judge D. H. Seбора commented during the dedication ceremonies Tuesday of the new $234,372 Calumet County Courthouse Annex.

Judge Seбора, Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane, County Board Chairman L. H. Huibregtse, and District Atty. F. J. Schmieder served as master of ceremonies accepted it earlier.

The County Board, as representatives of the people of Calumet County, is to be commended for providing these excellent court facilities. It is an indication of its appreciation of the courts and what they mean in our way of life," Judge Seбора said.

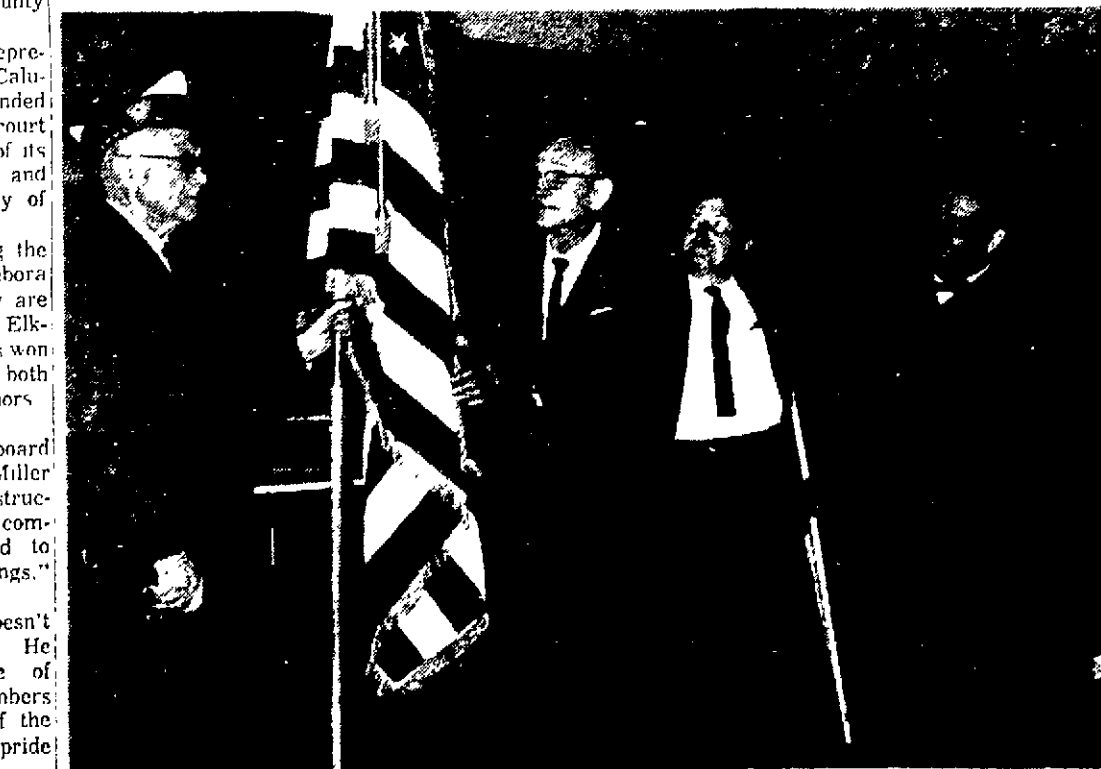

The courtrooms are among the finest in the state, Judge Seбора added, pointing out that they are replicas of the courtrooms at Elkhorn. The Elkhorn courtrooms were the architects, who designed both courtrooms, professional honors.

Lauds Board Judge Cane lauded the board and County Clerk Roland Miller for the work in planning the structure and seeing it through to completion. "I am truly proud to preside in these surroundings," Judge Cane said.

"A building like this just doesn't happen," said Huibregtse. He echoed Judge Cane's praise of Miller, and the board members, and said that all citizens of the county should feel a sense of pride over the building.

"The courts are the front door of democracy," Huibregtse said in conclusion. He thanked the veterans groups for the two flags they donated to the county—one for each courtroom.

Highlight of the Dedication Tuesday of the new $234,000 Calumet County Courthouse annex was the presentation of flags by Wilbur Winch, left, County Board Chairman L. H. Act Aimed At Teen-Age Dance Halls

CHILTON — Spurred by a recent outbreak of beer bar brawls, the Calumet County Board Tuesday amended the county's dance hall ordinance to the sale of beer in dance areas.

The measure is aimed primarily at beer bars which have been the setting for fights and other disturbances. It was introduced late Tuesday morning by George Schwalbach, Harrison supervisor, and received swift attention. The amendment was prepared during the noon hour and received a unanimous vote in the afternoon.

The new restrictions will take effect July 1. This was requested by Schwalbach, who explained that the town boards are now in the process of issuing tavern licenses which are also effective July 1.

Trouble Results Before the amendment, only the sale of intoxicating liquor was prohibited in dance areas by the ordinance. It has been a regular practice of two of the county's beer bars recently to stage public dances with live music in their barroom areas.

Trouble has resulted, Dist. Atty. F. J. Schmieder said. An unruly patron will throw beer or a glass onto the dance floor and soon a brawl is started, he pointed out. A near riot two weeks ago was the worst incident.

Supervisors indicated that they have received many complaints of such incidents from dance hall inspectors. The inspectors have also urged the amendment.

Permits Dances The amended ordinance permits dances where the barroom is separate from the dance floor. It must be a distinct room, though on the same premises.

The measure was a stopgap. Total and careful revision of the entire dance hall ordinance was suggested.

County Clerk Roland Miller pointed out that the ordinance amendment would eliminate dance

Manawa Driver Fined for Beer, Minors in Car

WAUPACA — Gary L. Chick, 19, 914 Elm St., Manawa, was fined $100 for having beer in a car with minors and $25 for littering in South Park. He was arraigned Monday before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

Chick also was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, but the sentence was stayed, and he was placed on probation to Police Chief Fred Rasmussen for one year.

A car owned by Chick's parents was involved in a traffic accident Saturday morning on Badger Street. The car hit a light pole at the service station at State Street and went through two hedges at the Catholic church and a nearby home. Chick at first told police he was driving the car, but later admitted a juvenile boy from Iowa was the driver.

The boy was referred to juvenile authorities at Stevens Point. A 17-year-old girl also was with Chick. Chick admitted buying beer and taking it with the juveniles to South Park where they threw three beer cans out of the car.

Kennedy Notes Russian People Seek Peace

Purpose Is to Show Them Americans Are Not Hostile People

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy, in his speech at American University Monday, made a significant difference between the Soviet government and its people. This is the first time a recognition of the peaceful aspirations of the Soviet people themselves has been expressed by him in such a clear-cut way.

Lawrence

In a sense, Mr. Kennedy is following the strategy of previous Presidents. The purpose, of course, is to show the Russian people that basically the American people are not hostile to them but merely differ from them in their understanding of the processes by which real freedom in the world can be obtained. Mr. Kennedy, for instance, said:

Wilson Message
"No government or social system is so evil that its people must be considered as lacking in virtue. As Americans, we find Communism profoundly repugnant as a negation of personal freedom and dignity. But we can still hail the Russian people for their many achievements—in science and space, in economic and industrial growth, in culture and in acts of courage."

Somewhat the same philosophy was expressed by the late Pope John in his famous encyclical of a few years ago which aroused worldwide attention. The idea was first broached by President Woodrow Wilson in his war message to Congress in 1917, when he said specifically that the American people had no quarrel with the German people but only with the Kaiser's government.

Mr. Kennedy recognizes fully the passion for peace which is imbedded in the spirit of the Russian people as well as the American people. He stressed the tremendous sacrifices made by the Russians in the Second World War, when at least 20,000,000 persons in the Soviet Union lost their lives, and when, as he described it, "countless millions of homes and farms were burned or sacked."

Realizing, to be sure, that many persons in the world are skeptical of the good faith of the Soviet government in keeping treaties, Mr. Kennedy anticipated the argument when he said, "even the most hostile nations can be relied upon to accept and keep those treaty obligations, and only those treaty obligations, which are in their own interest."

Perhaps what must have been the most difficult part of the President's speech to prepare was that section in which he issued this warning:

Issues Warning
"Above all, while defending our own vital interests, nuclear powers must avert those confrontations which bring an adversary to a choice of either a humiliating retreat or a nuclear war. To adopt that kind of course in the nuclear age would be evidence only of the bankruptcy of our policy—or of a collective deathwish for the world."

"To secure these ends, America's weapons are non-provocative, carefully controlled, designed to deter and capable of selective use. Our military forces are committed to peace and disciplined in self-restraint. Our diplomats are instructed to avoid unnecessary irritants and purely rhetorical hostility."

Makes TV Appeal Kennedy Follow-Up on Civil Rights Important

BY JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, faced with a racial crisis that threatens violence and lives, finally appealed in a nationwide broadcast for an end to discrimination against Negroes.

He did five things in his talk Tuesday night:

1. He blamed all 50 states, not just the South where racial prejudice is most intense, for discrimination.
2. He made equal treatment for Negroes an urgent necessity by noting that violence and lives are threatened.
3. He asked all white Americans to examine their conscience and cooperate in ending discrimination.
4. By the broadcast he put the full weight of his office behind his plea to give Negroes the constitutional rights denied them.
5. He outlined steps he wants Congress to take in this direction.

probably will not be — there would surely be an advance in the cause of peace, because basically the trouble in the world is the lack of communication between the Russian people and the American people.

of Alabama over the completely empty resistance of Gov. George C. Wallace.

If Kennedy had made the same kind of talk earlier in his administration some, if not most, of the present tensions might have been avoided although perhaps not unless he had followed the talk with action.

By the same token race relations in the United States now might have been far more adroitly handled if President Dwight D. Eisenhower had made a similar plea just once in his eight years in office.

He finally did it a few hours after compelling the admittance of two Negroes to the University

—He wants a law giving Negroes the right to be served in public facilities, like hotels and restaurants. This seems to mean a law forbidding proprietors of such facilities, if they are involved in interstate commerce at all, to decide on their own to refuse to serve Negroes. On May 21 the Supreme Court ruled no state or city law can force such a proprietor to discriminate. It didn't yet say whether they could do it on their own.

—He wants a law from Congress to authorize the federal government to step in more fully for such authority.

in lawsuits to end segregation in public education. As of now a Negro denied admittance to a segregated school in almost all areas must file his own suit. Few Negroes can afford such expense.

Some Negro leaders feel, however, that unless Congress passes a law permitting the government to file a suit in any case where a Negro's civil rights are denied—not just in selected fields—all other measures are insufficient.

It seems pretty certain at this writing that Kennedy will not ask government to step in more fully for such authority.

Paid Holiday List Clipped

Board Cuts Four Days From Court Workers' Schedule

CHILTON — The Calumet County Board of Supervisors Tuesday clipped four paid holidays off the annual schedule of courthouse employees and called for strict adherence to an extended supper hour on Friday evenings when the courthouse remains open.

The move, in the form of a resolution, reduced the number of paid holidays for courthouse employees and officers from 16 to six. Paid holidays eliminated were Veterans Day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday and Columbus Day. Holidays remaining on the schedule are New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Partially offsetting the loss of paid free time for the workers was another part of the resolution closing the courthouse at noon on the day before Christmas, the day before New Year's Day and from noon with no reopening in the evening on Good Friday.

Only Opposition

Carl Peik registered the only opposition. He pointed out that the employees entered into contracts with the extended schedule of paid holidays in mind. Now they are being deprived of them in the middle of a contract year, he said. Peik cast the only vote of opposition in the roll call ballot.

The new schedule conforms with the holidays extended state employees.

In another portion of the same resolution, the board extended the Friday evening supper period from 30 to 45 minutes but demanded strict compliance to the extended recess in the future.

Prolong Supper Period

Many reports have been brought to supervisors' attention that some employees have made a habit of violation the supper period and prolonging it to more than an hour. Board Chairman L. H. Holbrecht said.

Chairmen of committees governing the various departments were charged with the responsibility to issue reprimands if the occasion arises.

May Need Teachers

In other business, Superintendent of Schools F. J. Flanagan appealed to the board for authorization to make arrangements for another special class group, should the need arise. This would entail hiring of another teacher and acquiring classroom space.

Flanagan explained a total of 27 retarded children attended the educable and trainable classes during the past term at St. Mary School, Chilton, and the Twain School, rural Chilton. There is a potential of 40 students next year, he said. This would require another teacher. He also said there is a possibility of getting a classroom at the Forest Junction School on a lease from the Brillion District.

A resolution transferring $10,000 from the contingent account to the courthouse building account was approved. The money is needed to pay for repairs to the heating plant and other unforeseen expenses which have arisen since the courthouse annex was built.

Asks Legislation

Directing his remarks to William Struening, who also serves as Calumet County's assemblyman, Herman Greve suggested that Struening sponsor legislation which would require newspapers to print corrections or retractions in a prominent position "on the front page." Greve said, "News-papers print anything they want, then hide their corrections on the back page."

He also suggested that the seven-station state FM network be eliminated. "Statistics show that one-half of one per cent of the people in the state listen to the network," Greve said. He pointed out that it was a costly operation for the service it provides and added that the services are duplicated by commercial FM network," Greve said. He pointed out that people who own FM radios and are able to tune in on the network.

Greve was told to draft an advisory resolution to the state legislature and present it to the county board for action.

Orrin Meyer was reappointed to a seven-year term on the county park commission. His current term will expire July 1. Meyer is commission secretary.

program of community improvement. The community then submits evidence to the government.

Do Work at Cost

If interested in such a program, Ackerman said the department of resource development cannot do its services but will do the work at its actual cost to the department to help prepare the program and the application.

"Our government's basic intent is not to compete with private consultants but to help you get started and work with you if you want technical assistance," Ackerman stated.

The federal government will not share in the cost of preparing a workable program or in the application. After that, three-fourths of costs charged to the project are borne by the federal government.

Should Use Both

Ackerman told the city officials that they do not have to be conducting both programs simultaneously and they do not have to start with community planning but can start with urban renewal. Asked if the department felt that one program goes with the other, Ackerman said that it was the department's feeling that the city should be doing both; however, it is the city's decision what it wants to do first.

The city does not have to wait on its comprehensive program to start urban renewal. Ackerman said the department feels that every community that needs urban renewal should not wait but should go ahead and strongly urges all to go into urban renewal at its meeting on Wednesday evening.

He pointed out that the city could go ahead and do its first urban renewal project while working on its comprehensive.

Papal Chamberlain Rites Delayed by Pope's Death

CHILTON — The far-reaching effects of the death last week of Pope John XXIII were felt in Chilton when the formal investiture of a Chilton native into the robes of a Papal Chamberlain was postponed.

The ceremony with the Most Rev. Stanislaus V. Bona, bishop of Green Bay officiating, was to be the highlight of a dual celebration by the Very Rev. Msgr. Alfred Schneider at 11 a.m. Wednesday in St. Mary Catholic Church here. He will be celebrating his silver jubilee of priesthood.

His intentions, he said Monday, had been to delay the honor so that he could receive it at his home parish, St. Mary Congregation here, on his silver jubilee of priesthood. The title is technically terminated with the Pope's death and reinstatement is automatic with the election of the new Pontiff, but the ceremony cannot be conducted until there is a new Pope, he said.

Msgr. Schneider is continental director for all Catholic Relief Service work in South America. He is one of three continental directors in the world-wide relief agency. Others administer the programs in Africa and Asia.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

These Diagrams, Taken from an official Department of Defense publication illustrate 11 ways to display the American flag properly. Fox Cities residents are reminded they still can buy flags from the Appleton Downtown Kiwanis Club at its booths in the First National Bank and the Appleton State Bank.

Proper Rules Should be Heeded When Displaying American Flag

Fox Valley Residents Will Have Ample Chance to Put Up Colors in Next Weeks

National holidays on June 14 and July 4 as well as holiday celebrations in the Fox Cities during the next few weeks will give Fox Valley residents plenty of opportunities to display the American flag.

Those who do not now have a flag are reminded the Appleton Downtown Kiwanis Club still is selling them at booths in the First National Bank and the Appleton State Bank.

Residents who plan to display the American flag should keep in mind that certain laws and customs have evolved to assure a proper respect for the colors.

General rules to remember are that the American flag should be raised quickly and lowered with dignity by hand. No objects should be placed on or above the flag and it must not be used to cover a speaker's table.

The accompanying diagrams illustrate how the flag must be displayed in accordance with specific rules.

Specific regulations concerning the flag are:

- 1) When displayed over the mid-

- 2) When displayed with another from crossed staffs the American flag should be placed in front and to its own right.
- 3) When displayed at half mast the flag must be run to the peak of the staff and then lowered to half mast. When lowering the flag for the day it should again be raised to the peak.
- 4) When other flags are flown on the same halyard with the American flag the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the American flag should be raised first and lowered last.
- 5) When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk on a rope to a pole the flag should be hoisted from the building toward the pole union first.
- 6) When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting at any angle from a building the union of the flag should go to the peak of the staff.
- 7) When the flag is used to cover a casket it should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave or allowed to touch the ground.
- 8) When the flag is displayed other than by flying from a staff it should be displayed flat either horizontally or vertically with the union uppermost and to the observer's left. It never should be draped.
- 9) When carried in a procession with other flags the American flag should be on the marchers' right or when there is a line of other flags in front of the center of the line.
- 10) When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs with the national flag the latter should be at the center or at the highest point of the group.
- 11) When the flags of two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height never one on top of the other.

Users should not let the flag become soiled touch the ground or floor nor brush against objects.

When the flag is passing in a parade men should remove their hats with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder. Women should place the right hand over the heart.

When the flag is in such a condition through wear or damage that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display it should be destroyed in a dignified way preferably by burning.

Byrnes Says Democrats Rejected Proposed Tax Deduction for Elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin Rep. John W. Byrnes, senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee said Monday "a solid bloc of Democrats defeated a proposal that would have permitted elderly persons to take an income tax deduction in the amount of medical insurance premiums."

Some opponents of President Kennedy's plan for health care for the aged under Social Security were understood to be pushing the proposal which might have reduced pressures for the government program.

Byrnes said there might be a later attempt to write the provision in the tax bill.

The vote on the proposal was 12-12 with all 10 Republican members of the committee voting for it. Byrnes said a tie vote means defeat.

Speaker Tells Of Importance Of Family Life

Welfare Director Describes Concern To Lions Club

"What we do about family living and home life may be of greater importance than what is done today or in the next five years at Cape Canaveral," Alfred Eggert, director of public welfare for Outagamie County, told the Appleton Lions Club Monday.

Eggert spoke of his concern about the "deterioration and breakdown of family life" and the lowering of the standards of public morality in the nation today.

Research shows that "the magnitude of marital unhappiness is severe," he said. He listed eight "signs of psychological frictions":

1. An increase in mental illness.
2. 6 Million Alcoholics
3. One of three Americans has or will have a deep-seated emotional difficulty requiring psychiatric attention or hospital treatment.
4. The country has 6 million alcoholics and many more problem drinkers.
5. Ten million Americans have gone through divorce proceedings since World War II, and one in five marriages are expected to fail in 1963.
6. "Shocking Change"
7. There is a "shocking change" in the nation's sex habits," as shown by the increase in illegitimacy among junior high school pupils.
8. The increase in juvenile delinquency.
9. Illegal abortions by 1.2 million women a year, most of them married — "the disease of American society."
10. One-half million children under 18 who have living parents live in foster homes or institutions.

Failure of System

These are "a reflection of the failure of our system of matrimony to meet the changes of the times," he said. The need of America today is to rear a generation of citizens who can help secure a peaceful world, he said.

We know about rocketpower but we still do not know enough about the human race, Eggert declared. "Social workers have no Cape Canaveral, no great sums of money, no great fanfare for the study of human behavior. But they are providing society with some hopeful peeks into men's minds and motivations, and guides for what makes a mature man or woman."

No social worker, psychiatrist or psychologist can answer these questions with the same certainty as the scientist, he said, but they are "trying desperately to close the gap between what we know about the physical world around us and the mental and emotional world within us."

Enough to Save

"I believe we know enough to save millions from heartbreak and to give guides for what makes a good husband or good wife," he said.

It is quite evident that if society wishes to achieve any reasonable effectiveness in improving family life, it must come from the home, he said.
